THE DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 22.—Recent deluges of printer's ink over the supposed satanic success of the Roosevelt administration in swaying the press, are large a tempest in a teapot.

Press relations under the New Deal have been about the same as those under any other recent administration, with two exceptions:

1. Roosevelt has been a little more skillful in doing what every other president has striven to do—win the favor of the White House correspondents.

2. The New Deal has hired an unusual number of newspapermen, but for the most part, they have been efficient, faithful government servants, serving as fact-finders rather than propaganda-distributors.

PRESS HONEYMOON

UNQUESTIONABLY the early days of the New Deal were marked by a honeymoon between press and president. To a certain extent this is true of every new administration. It was particularly true of Roosevelt because news was breaking faster than at any other time since the World war.

A deluge of news is the best way to keep the press happy. It is also the best way to prevent scandals from being unearthed. When reporters are rushed to death with such momentous events as the United States going off the gold standard, they do not have time to savor anything else. And their managing editors would not have the space to use it even if they did.

That was why the CCC kit bag story slipped by with very meager repercussions. Too much else was happening in the spring of 1933.

However, those honeymoon days are now over.

Between Roosevelt and the press is a whole new era. Press conferences are no longer the love-feasts they once were. Barbed questions are shot at the president—usually skillfully parried. Background information no longer is given so freely. Some reporters, tired of the good-natured perfunctory which is the chief material exuded from the conferences, no longer attend. There was a time when they could not afford to be absent.

This attitude, it should be emphasized, is that of the press as a whole. It is not true of the little group of reporters closest to the White House.

HAPPY FAMILY

THIS group has become almost a part of the president's entourage. Its motto is "The President Can Do No Wrong."

Naturally this is a great boon to any president. The reporters who cover the White House write for several million people whereas the average newspaperman writes for thousands. They are the machine gunners of journalism—and Roosevelt knows this.

He also knows their first names, invites them to dinner frequently, gives them entrance to the White House at any and all times. Mrs. Roosevelt visits them when they are sick. Sometimes she drops in casually to see their children. They are a part of the official family.

As a result, they worship the Roosevelts with a ferocity that is understandable but that cannot help but influence their work.

This is a relationship to which every president aspires. Calvin Coolidge got it to a considerable extent. So did Warren Harding. Hoover did not. Roosevelt has achieved it more successfully than any of these—but only with the small group which covers the White House.

With the press in general he has not.

The army of newspapermen hired as publicity men for the New Deal will be diagnosed in a subsequent column.

BELLOWING JOE

HUEY LONG was telling the senate that the "march" of farmers on Washington was not spontaneous, that it had been drummed up by the administration.

"Somebody says," shouted Huey, "they brought 400 of them from Louisiana."

Senator Joe Robinson, administration defender, bristled. Advancing upon Long with clenched fists, he bellowed: "To whom does the senator refer when he says 'they' (Please turn to Page 12.)

HOUSE SMASHES VETO

Two Teachers Hired Despite Tenure Stand

Re-election last night by the board of education of Miss Marie Osborne and Mrs. Hubert Keuneman to the positions they now hold in the teaching personnel of the Santa Ana schools, marked the first time in three years that a teacher finishing her probationary period had been re-elected, thereby given a permanent rating under the state teacher tenure law. The re-election of two teachers followed a heated discussion by board members.

The motion for re-election was made by Dr. Margaret

FIGHT VETO ON WATER MEASURE

Coast Association Asks Merriam to Sign District Bill

The Orange County Coast association last night went into action on behalf of the amendment to the county water district act, which would broaden contractual powers and permit exercise of the eminent domain function by the county water district. The group instructed its secretary, Harry Welch, of Newport Beach, to communicate with Governor Merriam, urging him not to veto the measure if it comes before him.

Meeting in Birds' cafe at Laguna Beach, the association heard a report on the bill by Willis Warner of Huntington Beach, chairman of the water district board of directors, who also urged the people of the county to urge the governor to take favorable action on the amendment.

It has passed the senate and has been favorably acted upon by the assembly committee. It is expected daily that the matter will come to the assembly floor, all (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

Second Trial Starts In Criminal Assault Charges Against Man

For the second time the fate of Manuel Castillo, charged with criminally assaulting Mrs. Mary Martinez, of Stanton, went to a jury today. Castillo's second trial, granted an appeal to the fourth district court of appeals, was conducted before Superior Judge H. G. Ames and a jury in department 1.

Final argument was delayed this morning for more than an hour when Mrs. Anna Clark, a juror, failed to appear in court. A deputy sheriff was sent to her home and found that she had been delayed when her automobile refused to start. She was rushed to the courthouse in a county car.

50 CENTS FROM 300 PEOPLE!

That Much Needed for Vern's Chair

If 300 people of Orange county would contribute 50 cents apiece, Vernon Carpenter, the crippled boy, would be riding around in a new wheel chair within the immediate future.

Thirty-seven individuals and clubs have come to the aid of Santa Ana's 24-year-old invalid with donations ranging from $1 to $10 the past few days.

Contributions of 25 and 50 cents soon would increase this $85.05 fund to the $250 needed to purchase Vern a new gasoline motor.

Welfare committees of service clubs of the county are reported to be discussing Vernon's plight, and are expected to come to his

Vote Is 3 to 2

Mr. Wells then passed the gavel to the first vice president of the board, Mr. Hays, and offered an amendment to the original motion to the effect that the board reaffirm its stand on the tenure law. M. B. Youell seconded the motion. Mr. Hays then ruled that the amendment to the motion was out of order, and after the gavel was returned to Mr. Wells, a vote was taken, with Mr. Hays, Dr. Baker, and Ridley Smith voting for re-election of the teachers, and Mr. Youell and Mr. Wells voting "no."

The motion to re-elect Mrs. Keuneman and Miss Osborne was made on the recommendation of Superintendent of Schools Frank Henderson. Miss Osborne is an elementary teacher and Mrs. Keuneman the elementary supervisor.

All Oppose Act Three years ago, the board adopted the policy of not re-electing teachers who have completed three years' probation, with the idea in mind that it would serve as a protest to the present tenure laws. All members of the board are opposed to the act.

Dr. Baker said the policy adopted by the board was also an attempt to improve the personnel (Please turn to Page 2, Col. 2.)

$15,000 Damage Suit Started Here Today

Keith M. Hall was the first witness called in department two, superior court this morning in the damage suit of Elsie Dennis who is suing L. L. Clarich for $15,000 damages for injuries received in a three-car automobile accident August 12, 1934, on Talbert road. According to the Dennis girl's complaint, she was a passenger in Hall's car.

Jurors are Mrs. L. L. Tanner, Mae L. Henry, George G. Grube, Jr., E. N. Turner, Ida C. Lake, Jennie A. Barnett, Mrs. Elsie Skinner, Mrs. W. H. Madeira, Mrs. Leonard C. Jones, Hugh LaRue, N. W. King and B. M. Huff.

Santa Ana police still are searching for M. Clarke, George Hutchinson and M. Gordon, said to be the actual promoters of the scheme. Warrants were issued for the trio immediately after the raid.

Vern's case is an exceptionally worthy one. Semi-paralyzed, he cannot walk because of his 340 pounds, and the use of his hands also is limited.

MAN THROWN FROM CAR, KILLED

Albert Pulis, 69, Dies In County Hospital After Accident

Albert Pulis, 69, of 876 West Forty-third street, Los Angeles, died in the Orange county hospital at 4 a. m. today from a fractured skull received shortly before last midnight when he was thrown from a light roadster as it attempted to make the turn from San Diego into Tustin.

Mr. Pulis, a printer for a Los Angeles evening paper, was riding with his son, Scott K. Pulis. The two were returning to their home from a fishing trip in San Diego. Scott Pulis, who was driving the car, told officers his father became alarmed as they approached the curve and yelled for him to "look out." The driver cramped the wheels of the car sharply, and struck the curb, throwing Mr. Pulis from the car. The machine ended up in an orange orchard.

Mr. Pulis' death is the twenty-second to occur from automobile (Please turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

Cantando Club Should Go to The Fair

(EDITORIAL)

THE Cantando club of Santa Ana should go to the fair. Nothing The Journal knows of would be so representative of Orange county as a whole.

Nothing would attract and hold more attention to Orange County day or any other day at the California International Exposition at San Diego.

Nothing would make us all so proud to live in Orange county. What would thrill and inspire more than 50 or 60 male voices singing throughout the day in front of Orange county's exhibit? Ask anyone who heard the club's concert last night at Orange.

FREE 'CHAIN' SUSPECT MORE PLANES FOR BRITAIN

Marion Smith, one of the six persons arrested Monday in connection with a "chain letter" Prosperity club raided by Santa Ana police and deputy sheriffs, was released from custody last night. She was freed under $5000 bail pending a preliminary hearing May 27 before Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison.

Miss Smith is the second woman of the group to be released under $5000 bond. Mrs. Louise Burghart of Hollywood having obtained her liberty Monday night. C. B. Brockett and N. W. Jones, in charge of the "club" at the time of the raid, and Helen Buchanan and Rose Mary Richert are still in custody. The Richert girl at the detention home.

Santa Ana police still are searching for M. Clarke, George Hutchinson and M. Gordon, said to be the actual promoters of the scheme. Warrants were issued for the trio immediately after the raid.

Boston Securities Firms Collapse

BOSTON, Wednesday, May 22. (AP)—The bursting of a $21,000,000 securities bubble apparently left thousands who invested with less than $100,000 today.

Attorney General Paul A. Dever said a rough survey of assets indicated that scarcely $1000 now is available of $16,000,000 invested in Seaboard Utilities securities, while only about $6000 of $5,000,000 invested in railroad shares securities remained.

HUGE STATE BUDGET IS APPROVED

$352,282,594 Setup Is Passed by Assembly Committee Today

SACRAMENTO, Wednesday, May 22. (AP)—A budget for operation of state government in the 1935-37 biennium totaling $352,282,594.22, the largest in the history of California, was approved today by unanimous vote of the assembly ways and means committee.

As adopted and recommended to the legislature for passage, the budget carried an increase of $4,969,519.63 over the total recommended by Gov. Merriam.

To the committee's final recommendation must be added the special fund proposed by the governor for unemployment relief in the next biennium, $47,300,000, which would increase the complete budget to $399,582,594.22.

OVERRIDES PRESIDENT'S ACTION ON BONUS BILL BY VOTE OF 322 TO 98

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 22. (AP)—Flaunting President Roosevelt's personal warning that the Patman $2,200,000,000 bonus bill invited "disastrous consequences," the house thundered the necessary two-thirds to override his veto today.

The vote was 322 to 98.

The vote by which the Patman bill passed the house in March was 318 to 90.

The issue thus was placed squarely up to the senate. There the administration was counting on a few votes margin to sustain the Roosevelt objections.

The senate late today agreed to defer consideration of the bonus veto until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Arrangements had been made for the president's speedy return to the White house following delivery of his message, after which the house vote was scheduled.

Even before the cabinet members and senators could get out of the house chamber where they heard the message, cries of "vote! vote!" arose from the floor.

Denouncing the bill as providing a "deceptively easy method of payment," the president said it constituted an invitation to start the printing presses, with ultimate "sky-rocketing prices" and "destruction" of savings.

Plan Compromise Just after he had left the capitol, and senators had departed from the overcrowded chamber, the powerful bonus forces in the house united for a last effort on behalf of their pet before possibly opening a fight for something less later.

Should the senate refuse the two-thirds majority necessary to override, early work on a compromise partial bonus payment was expected.

The Roosevelt position today was construed by some as indicating he would not veto a plan whereby veterans could cash in their certificates at current instead of full value.

Although the president quoted an old speech by him in arguing that the Patman bill was unfair, Senator Borah (R., Idaho) was among those who disputed the argument that full payment was not now due.

Insists It Will Aid "Payment in this way," the senator insisted, "will not only be helpful to the soldier but to business."

The president had acknowledged that payment would help consumer business, but said the money would go right back into banks without helping the heavy industries where increased activity would be most beneficial.

Mr. Roosevelt declared the benefits which have been extended to veterans might be measured by the fact that $7,800,000,000 had been spent in behalf of them up to the end of the last fiscal year, not including the amounts received by those on relief. He spoke of "lib-

BONUS VETO BOOED BERKELEY—Boos and cat-calls greeted announcement today before the 32nd annual state convention of the United Spanish War Veterans that President Roosevelt had delivered his veto message on the bonus bill.

BONNIE HILL CONVICTED NEW ORLEANS — Bonnie Hill, 23-year-old night club "playgirl" was convicted of manslaughter by a jury early today in connection with the stabbing of John Irving Pierce, youthful and socially prominent Jackson, Miss., writer.

FREE GASOLINE!

LOS ANGELES—Hundreds of persons started a wild stampede to the harbor district today after an underground lake, said by Fire Chief Ralph Scott to consist of pure gasoline, was discovered. The rush was started when persons found that by digging shallow wells at Anaheim road and Badger avenue in the Wilmington district they could bale out gasoline in buckets.

Liquor Store Owner Is Convicted Here

Carl Ziraniski, proprietor of a liquor store at 116 North Main street, was found guilty by a jury yesterday in City Judge J. G. Mitchell's court of selling liquor to a minor.

On April 30, Ziraniski was tried on the same charge, but the jury was unable to agree on a verdict. A special venire was used for the trial yesterday. The verdict was brought in at 8:30 p. m. with the jury recommending leniency. He will be brought to court at 10 a. m. tomorrow to be sentenced.

SUPERVISORS APPROVE PLAN FOR NEW BEACH AT NEWPORT

MUD FLAT NEAR BAY WILL BE TRANSFORMED

Irvine Company Given Board's Permission for New Project

Plans of the Irvine company to transform a rock studded mud flat on the east side of East bay at Newport Beach into a public beach were approved yesterday by the board of supervisors. On motion of Supervisor W. C. Jerome, Chairman John C. Mitchell was authorized to transmit this approval in a letter to the Irvine company.

In approving the proposal the supervisors pointed out that while the project really concerns only the city of Newport Beach, they would add their approval because of the county's interest in the harbor.

City Approves
Mayor John Hilmer, of Newport, who accompanied J. Roy Browning, engineer for the Irvine company, in his appearance before the supervisors, said that the city already has approved the project. Before work can be started, approval of the war department must be obtained. This has been assured by army engineers, Browning said.

The improvement is to be made on land owned by the Irvine company adjoining the western end of Corona Del Mar. The Irvine property extends to the government bulkhead. Dredging operations now in progress in Balboa bay will leave an unsightly mud flat on the bay side of the bulkhead, according to Browning.

Would Build Beach
Under the plan of his company, the government will be asked to move the bulkhead line to a point corresponding with the limit of the dredging project and permit the filling of the flat with sand dredged from the bay. The fill is to be made at high tide, permitting the sand to slope to the water line.

Browning said that the Irvine company plans to construct a 700-foot levee on company property across the bay from the south end of Balboa Island to prevent the dredge material from returning to the bay channel after dumping on the flat.

Through filling their own land and the space made available by moving the government bulkhead, Browning said that a public beach reaching at least 400 feet from the water line will be available to the public. The Irvine company will grant an easement to this beach, Browning said.

HARVARD 'LAMPOON' HEADS QUIT AFTER PARODY EDITION

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Wednesday, May 22. (AP)—The Harvard Lampoon's building was padlocked today and three of its principal officers had quit.

The Lampoon had published a parody last week on a nationally known magazine—a parody which resulted in the issue being barred from the mails.

A terse statement by the university read:

"The university has taken no action in regard to the Harvard Lampoon. The trustees of the Lampoon have notified the university that the Lampoon building will be closed from Monday, May 20, to Saturday, June 15, and that the president, treasurer and secretary of the Lampoon have resigned."

BAR ASSOCIATION DEMANDS CRAIG RESIGN POSITION

LOS ANGELES, Wednesday, May 22. (AP)—The board of trustees of the Los Angeles Bar association was on record today demanding the resignation of Gavin W. Craig, associate justice of the state court of appeals, second district.

Judge Craig and Joseph Weinblatt, broker, were convicted recently of conspiracy to obstruct justice in the Italo Petroleum corporation mail fraud case. Their co-defendant, Helen Werner, former political leader, was acquitted.

A. F. L. Units Are Declared Illegal

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 22. (AP)—Justice Jesse C. Adkins of the District of Columbia supreme court has ruled that both of the American Federation of Labor's building trades departments were illegally constituted at present.

Since January 1, each of the two departments has claimed it was the "legal" department.

The one headed by J. W. Williams and recognized by William Green, federation president, asked the court to enjoin the organization led by M. J. McDonough from calling itself the A. F. of L. building trades department.

Legislature At Work

Amid charges that many mental patients were "being buried in private institutions and driven to hopeless insanity," the assembly hospital and asylums committee gave a favorable recommendation to the Perry bill permitting communication between patient and friends or relatives.

Passage of the Lyon bill prohibiting "price" advertising by optometrists was voted late yesterday by the assembly, 55 to 9.

SACRAMENTO, Wednesday, May 22. (AP)—The Swing bill providing machinery for the liquidation of closed banks, was before the senate today, passed out without recommendation by the committee on banking.

The Defani bill, placing hospital associations under the jurisdiction of the state insurance commissioner, was on the assembly floor today with approval of the committee on insurance. The bill, designed to curb alleged "racketeering" by such associations, has passed the senate.

The senate roads and highways committee "st night tabled" Senator Rigger's bill to have the state highway commissioners draw $3,000 a year salary. Highway commissioners now serve without pay.

Objections by representatives of the state department of public works have caused a temporary halt in senate committee consideration of a proposed omnibus road bill, designed to sweep 1437 additional miles of county roads into the state system.

The stamp of senate committee approval is placed today on the Redwine bill which would allow cities to use part of their share of the gas tax revenues for illuminating city streets. The measure already has passed the lower house. The senate group also approved the assembly bill placing a tax of $15 apiece on new automobiles caravanned into the state for sale.

An amended marketing agreement, providing for control of the 1935 California fresh deciduous tree fruit crop through a 26-member board, is before California fruit shippers for their approval today. It has been approved by AAA.

though San Bernardino county interests are strenuously opposing it.

Elmer Hughes of Seal Beach, vice president, presided last night. He and Harry Welch reported on the status of a bill creating a fish preserve along three miles of the county's coast. Mr. Welch said that a telegram had been received yesterday from a coast association delegation at Sacramento, to the effect that the bill might be acted upon today, perhaps on a compromise basis whereby the preserve area would be shortened to one and one-half or two miles.

Plan Trade Tour
Howard I. Wood, secretary of the Santa Ana chamber of commerce, reported on plans for an Orange county chamber of commerce tour of Los Angeles harbor June 4, in connection with foreign trade week.

A. C. Peterson, Laguna Beach, reported on behalf of V. D. Johnson, county publicity director, on progress made in creating an Orange county exhibit at the San Diego exposition.

Sherman Denny of Huntington Beach told of recent developments in connection with proposals to exploit state tideland oil resources at Huntington Beach, and P. J. Greeley of Balboa told of activity in improving Newport harbor.

of the teaching staff, but stated she was personally willing to admit that the plan was unsatisfactory.

Mr. Smith told the board that until some plan could be worked out whereby the efficiency of the personnel of the teaching staff could be assured, he would be in favor of the present policy. At the suggestion of Mr. Wells, a motion was passed instructing Mr. Henderson to draw up a plan for the professional improvement of teachers to overcome the board's objections to the tenure laws.

CLUB MEETS TOMORROW

The Thimble club of the Native Daughters of Golden West will hold a cover-dish luncheon tomorrow noon at the home of Mrs. W. A. West, West Seventeenth street. It will be an all-day meeting.

CHURCH GROUP NAMES HEADS

Discussing "Christian Ideals" in Business, Social and International Relations," Dr. Angus McLeod, pastor of the Calvary Presbyterian church in Long Beach, addressed more than 100 men at the second annual convention of the Orange County Church Brotherhood at the First Methodist church in Garden Grove last night.

Fred Dukes of the Buena Park Community Congregational church was elected president to succeed L. F. Scheel. Others chosen include Ira C. Weide, La Habra Methodist, vice president; Allen Goddard, Garden Grove M. E., secretary-treasurer; S. C. Hart, Anaheim Presbyterian, chairman of the board of directors; Oliver Lingo, Fullerton Christian, executive secretary; Ed W. Moore, Fullerton Baptist, temperance chairman; C. G. Dowds, Santa Ana Presbyterian, stage and screen chairman; Judge Kenneth Morrison, Santa Ana M. E., South boys' work chairman; Paul Demere, Anaheim M. E., anti-war and world peace chairman; L. F. Scheel, Fullerton Presbyterian, economic and social progress chairman; R. C. Patton, Orange M. E., public education chairman; George Faires, Santa Ana M. E., fraternal brotherhood, chairman.

SERA MEDICAL AID DELAYED

The problem of representation on a committee of five to be set up in connection with an SERA project for emergency medical care, probably will be referred to the medical director for the state emergency relief administration as a result of discussion at yesterday's meeting of the county committee in the SERA building here.

As the project has been set up by the state, the committee is to have a medical examiner, one from the county board of supervisors, a dentist, a pharmacist and an SERA representative.

Osteopaths Nominated
S. W. Colloch, committeeman from Placentia, called the group's attention to the contention that osteopaths should be represented on the committee.

A panel is to be set up for those who wish to treat SERA patients under the new project. It was pointed out that anyone who is a medical doctor may be on the panel, which it was assumed would include osteopaths who had passed the required medical examination.

MORE ABOUT BUDGET

permit use of his name, said: "Despite the announcement of certain leaders that they are going to pass this budget before the revenue program to pay for it is approved, I don't think they'll do it."

"They've got to see where the votes lie and right now they haven't enough votes to pass the budget."

Because the budget represents an increase of $11,999,270.43 over that for the 1933-35 biennium, thus exceeding the five per cent statutory limitation upon budget increases, it cannot pass the legislature without a two-thirds vote of approval.

Upward Revisions
Besides the increases in budget allowances already granted, the committee added today these upward revisions:

Department of industrial relations, $34,670.
Support of California polytechnic school (to be paid out of horse racing revenues), $49,100.

The committee also agreed to earmark $500,000 of the $1,500,000 emergency fund recommended by the governor to offset any further increases in commodity prices chargeable to the support of state institutions.

Increases Noted
As completed by the committee, these are the principal increases allowed:

For increase commodity prices (over and above $500,000 figure earmarked)—$1,229,730.
University of California—$929,365.
Department of agriculture (pest and disease control work)—$186,540.
Veterans' home construction—$120,000.
Legislative printing—$200,000.
State teachers colleges—$281,000.
San Quentin prison (not to be expended if 2000 convicts are put in road camps)—$481,000.
Sacramento-San Joaquin rivers flood control—$1,211,000.

MORE ABOUT BONUS

eral legislation for disability and for death compensation" by which, he said, 1,140,000 men and women have been benefited.

"Generous provision has been made for hospitalization, vocational training and rehabilitation of veterans," Mr. Roosevelt declared.

He said payment of the soldiers' bonus with new currency under the Patman plan would mean paying $1,600,000,000 more than the present value of the soldiers' adjusted compensation certificates.

'Destroys Protection'
"It is a new straight gratuity or bounty to the amount of $1,600,000,000," he said. "It destroys the insurance protection for the dependents of the veterans provided in the original plan. For the remaining period of 10 years they will have lost this insurance."

"This proposal, I submit, violates the entire principal of veterans' benefits so carefully formulated at the time of the war and also the entire principle of the adjusted certificate settlement of 1924."

Replying to the argument of the bill's supporters that it would contribute to business recovery, the president said it doubtless would result in some expansion of retail trade but that "to resort to the kind of financial practice provided in this bill would not improve the conditions necessary to expand those industries in which we have the greatest unemployment."

$4,000,000,000 Deficit
The president pointed out that he already had sanctioned a deficit of $4,000,000,000 in order to finance his huge work relief program.

"I cannot in honesty assert to you that to increase that deficit this year by $2,000,000,000 will in itself bankrupt the United States," he said.

"Today the credit of the United States is safe. But it cannot ultimately be safe if we engage in a policy of yielding to each and all of the groups that are able to enforce upon the congress claims for special consideration."

'We Cannot Afford'
"To do so is to abandon the principle of government by and for the American people and to put in its place government by and for political coercion by minorities. We can afford all that we need; but we cannot afford all that we want."

He warned that if the certificates "due in 1945" are paid in full today, "every candidate for election to the senate or to the house of representatives will in the near future be called upon in the name of patriotism to support general pension legislation for all veterans, regardless of need or age."

The president expressed "great sympathy" for the argument that those who remained at home in civilian employ during the World War enjoyed special privilege and unwarranted remuneration.

"That is true—bitterly true—but a recurrence of that type of war profiteering can and must be prevented in any future war."

"I invite the congress and the veterans with the great masses of the American population to join with me in progressive efforts to root a recurrence of such injustice out of American life. But we should not destroy privilege and create new privilege at the same time. Two wrongs do not make a right."

Herculean Task
"The Herculean task of the United States government today is to take care that its citizens have the necessities of life. We are seeking honestly and honorably to do this, irrespective of class or group."

Referring again to the fact that the Patman bill would pay the bonus with new currency, Mr. Roosevelt asserted:

"In the majority of cases printing press money has not been retired through taxation. Because of increased costs, caused by inflated prices, new issue has followed new issue, ending in the ultimate wiping out of the currency of the afflicted country."

He said the argument that spending $2,200,000,000 for bonus payment is the best way of hastening recovery is "so ill considered that little comment is necessary."

Money For Recovery
Every appropriation by New Deal congresses for recovery purposes, he contended, "has been predicated not on the mere spending of money to hasten recovery, but on the sounder principle of preventing the loss of homes and farms, of saving industry from bankruptcy, of safeguarding bank deposits, and most important of all—of giving relief and jobs through public works to individuals and families faced with starvation."

He argued that "the veteran who suffers from this depression can best be aided by the rehabilitation of the country as a whole." In advancing this contention he mentioned the fact that the same view had been expressed several years ago "by the distinguished senior senator from Idaho."

SUPPORT OF POPPY DAY IS URGED BY PRESIDENT OF CHAMBER

Business houses of Santa Ana and their employees were urged to give fullest cooperation and support to Poppy Day, to be observed here and throughout the nation, next Saturday, in a statement issued today by William H. Spurgeon, president of the chamber of commerce.

Pointing out the patriotic significance of the poppy, Mr. Spurgeon asked that the Legion crepe paper poppy be worn generally in all places of business and that every aid be extended to the volunteer workers of the American Legion auxiliary who will distribute the little flowers of remembrance. The statement said:

"Members of the Santa Ana chamber of commerce always have been among the foremost to answer any civic or patriotic call. During the World War some served with the armed forces while others did their part in service at home. They remember and honor the sacrifices of those who gave up their lives in the nation's defense, of those who were disabled in war service, and those who lost sons, husbands or fathers."

fies my disapproval of this measure," the president concluded. As Speaker Byrns announced the vote, and finally concluded with "a two-thirds having voted in the affirmative the bill is passed, the president's objections notwithstanding," the house proceeded to other pending business.

Van Zandt Comments
James E. Van Zandt of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the first veterans' spokesman to comment, said:

"The overwhelming majority by which the house overrode the president's veto is conclusive proof of our statement that 80 per cent of the American people favor enactment of the Patman bill. We now look with confidence to the senate for another reflection of the nation's sentiment for justice to the World War veterans."

The president warned congress in vetoing the bill that if enacted into law it would invite "an ultimate reckoning in uncontrollable prices and in the destruction of the value of savings."

Such a result, he declared in the unprecedented message to the house and senate, "will strike most cruelly those like the veterans who seem to be temporarily benefited."

Fears Skyrocketing
"The first person injured by skyrocketing prices is the man on a fixed income," he said. "Every disabled veteran on pension or allowance is on a fixed income. This bill favors the able-bodied veteran at the expense of the disabled veteran."

"Wealth is not created nor is it more equitably distributed by this method. A government, like an individual, must ultimately meet legitimate obligations out of the production of wealth by the labor of human beings applied to the resources of nature."

"Every country that has attempted the form of meeting its obligations which is here provided has suffered disastrous consequences."

PAIR RECONCILED AFTER LONG BREACH
LOS ANGELES, Wednesday, May 22. (AP)—Reconciled after a 22-year separation, Dr. Robert S. Baker, 75, retired Kansas City physician, and Mrs. Sadie Baker, 74, of Long Beach, were on a second honeymoon today.

Robert M. Baker, of Long Beach, their son, brought the two together again and they were remarried by Superior Judge Charles C. Burnell.

The couple plans to live in Long Beach.

Scientific experiments have reassured farmers that there is no danger of chickens getting a lethal dose of arsenic from eating poisoned grasshoppers.

COLORFUL

This Tahitian beach and desert costume, shown by Madge Bellamy, screen feature player, is a colorful combination of red, black and yellow, comprising a brassiere-effect bodice, shorts and a wrap-around skirt. The fabric is silk crepe. Grecian sandals are red kid trimmed with yellow. The sunshade hat is red and mustard straw, with a bow of red velvet.

HORSE RACING SUPERVISION DISCUSSED

If there is to be horse racing in Orange county, it will be under supervision of the old county fair board, in the opinion of S. W. Stanley, Tustin, member of that body, who spoke before the Orange County Coast association at Laguna Beach last night. Mr. Stanley said that after conferences with the state racing commission, he and others, were of the opinion that the fair board is the only body that is likely to be given approval as a racing sponsor.

The Coast association last night considered the matter from several angles, but took no position on the subject. It was decided to refer the question to local chambers of commerce.

Roy Peacock of Laguna Beach suggested that there would be opposition to racing if gambling is connected with it. Mr. Stanley explained that racing and betting have been legalized, that horse racing undoubtedly will be brought to Orange county, and that he believed it should be handled under proper supervision.

Several guests were given special introductions last night, including James Irvine, sr., owner of the Irvine ranch; J. W. Crill, president of the farm bureau; Roland D. Flaherty, secretary of the farm bureau; W. D. Miller, Santa Ana, former president of the Coast association, and John Kelly, Santa Ana.

Ives L. Brown, member of the sheriff's farm detail, and Sam Snodgrass, former member of the same detail, spent last Saturday with Supervisor John C. Mitchell on his ranch in San Diego county. The trio fished a trout stream that runs through the ranch and each caught the limit of fish. The Mitchell ranch is a 360-acre tract in a canyon above Escondido.

Ray Overacker, Huntington Beach city attorney, was in Santa Ana yesterday transacting business at the courthouse.

Supervisor N. E. West of Laguna Beach went to Sacramento yesterday in connection with legislative matters in which this county is interested.

Dan Mulherson of San Clemente and Leslie Kimmel of Laguna Beach are in Sacramento, where they are working on behalf of a bill which would create a fish preserve along the Orange county coast.

Every Missourian is included in the call to the annual picnic reunion to be held in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles, all day Saturday.

Two out-of-town engagements kept Frank A. Henderson, city superintendent of schools, busy last week. Wednesday he addressed the Brea Lions club on "Public Schools and Social Environment." Friday he attended an all-day session of Southern California superintendents in Los Angeles.

Dr. Chad Harwood, who recently completed his internship at the Los Angeles county hospital, left last week for Chicago, where he will visit friends and relatives. Following a stay of two weeks in Illinois, he will return to Santa Ana to practice with his father, Dr. D. A. Harwood.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wilbur, 155 North Waverly, entertained Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Aebersold of Santa Ana as their guests at the Cantando club concert last night and afterward for a supper party at their home.

The public utility committee of the Orange County Farm bureau, of which P. J. Ton, Yorba Linda, is chairman, inspected the generating plant of the Southern California Edison company at Seal Beach yesterday. The committee is making a study of public utility problems affecting agriculture.

Howard Wood, secretary of the chamber of commerce, was in Los Angeles today, conferring with members of the chamber organization there.

Carl Fiene, 246 North Grand street, Orange, and his daughter, Miss Alice Fiene, were Santa Ana visitors today.

Approximately 50 persons, including employees of the Bank of America, with their wives, husbands and friends, will gather at Irvine Park at 6:30 p. m. today for the bank's annual picnic. Plans for the affair were made public by C. K. Dodds, manager of the institution.

HICCOUGHS FROM CHICKENS LEAD TO RAID OF BIG STILL

LOS ANGELES, Wednesday, May 22. (AP)—When federal agents heard a wild report that certain chickens on a ranch near San Gabriel were making hic-nick instead of cluck-cluck noises, they investigated.

The result: Seizure of a 250-gallon liquor still, 11,000 gallons of mash, 100 gallons of new alcohol and the arrest of Ralph Fraunfelder, Arthur P. Cline and Ray E. Pederson.

AS FRIEND TO FRIEND
Young Editor Likes Journal

From one newspaper publisher to another comes the following compliment from 12-year-old Harold Witt, 114 West 18th street:

"I read and like your new Santa Ana newspaper very much and am interested in newspaper editing. I am enclosing a copy of my neighborhood newspaper, 'The Neighborhood Bugle.'"

Harold directs his editorial staff, in addition to writing himself, sells advertising, manages the circulation, and prints the four-column, four-page paper on a hectograph. Friends of the publisher help him collect the news, and correspondents in Los Angeles and Pennsylvania contribute to his column. At the bottom of the "most head" is the comment that one society editor is needed.

Sells Advertising
Cost of the publication is paid for by advertising. A notice in last week's edition that circulation totaled 26, carried the statement, "This increase in circulation should prove very valuable to our advertisers." Feature columns have not been

GRAVES SURVEY
REQUESTED
BY VETS

No action was taken yesterday by the board of supervisors on a request by the American Legion to institute a survey for the location and marking of all graves of veterans in the county. The matter, which has been suggested as a State Emergency Relief association project, was referred to Supervisor W. C. Jerome for investigation.

According to the request which was submitted a few minutes before adjournment, the project is being generally sponsored by Seth Howard, adjutant-general of the California National Guard. Approval of the board of supervisors and a request from that body to Howard asking him to sponsor the project in this county would be necessary before it is submitted as a SERRA project.

Under the suggested plan one full time supervisor and a stenographic clerk would be employed. Investigators making the survey of cemeteries would come from the unemployed rolls, with veterans being given preference. The request for county endorsement included a statement that the county SERRA committee has no funds for transportation, supplies, equipment or material which must be provided by the county.

TWIST INSTALLED AS NEW HEAD OF
JUNIOR LION BODY

Eric Twist, Santa Ana, was installed president of the Federated Junior Lions council of district four during a dinner meeting in Ontario last night.

Four other members of the Santa Ana Metropolitan den—Chester Cook, Charles Greenleaf, Lawrence Peck and Robert MacFarlane—attended along with representatives from the Ontario and Covina chapters.

Mr. Twist replaces Shirley Snyder of Ontario as citrus council president. Santa Ana Metropolitan, assisted by the Santa Ana junior college den, will be the host at the next council meeting June 17.

FOUR NEW MEMBERS

Four new members were initiated into Santa Ana troop No. 103, Boy Scouts, under the direction of Harry Birdsall and Franklin Davis in ceremonies at the Spurgeon Memorial church last night.

Kenneth Mendenhall, Junior Morgan, John Matthews and Wayne Pitts were the new scouts accepted. Twenty-four old members took part in the initiation. Refreshments were served following a program of games.

STUDENT OPERA TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT

Produced by fourth, fifth and sixth grades at Spurgeon elementary school, "Palace of Carelessness," an operetta, will have its second presentation tonight at 7:30 in the Willard auditorium. A matinee performance was given this afternoon.

Six song and dance choruses have prepared some novelty routine in addition to the musical continuity of the play. Mrs. Inez McBay is directing the presentation.

FIGHT CODLING MOTH
Roy E. Black, deputy agricultural commissioner, gave the signal today which will start the annual spraying campaign in Orange county for control of codling moth worms on walnut trees. Mr. Black said that spraying should start about Friday in all parts of the county except the San Juan Capistrano area, where it should be deferred for a week or 10 days. The peak of egg laying will occur in about 10 days, he estimated.

VALENCIA GRID
DRILLS OPEN

Spring football drill has been launched at Valencia high school in Placentia, with more than 20 prospects receiving daily instruction from Coach Clarence Bishop.

Graduation of Quarterback Bob Smith will mean the transfer of Del Jones to the signal-calling position next fall, Bishop said. Jones was a fullback last year.

Valencia has three experienced wingmen returning in Cliff Hargrove, Cruze Rangel and Johnny Reyes. Other available linemen are Joe Jamison, Howard Rose, Dick Stafford, Harry Heppner and Mark Mier. Cliff Hamilton, a husky recruit from Brea-Orinda, should help. Lawrence Hodges, another Brea boy, and Ken Smith will be tested in the backfield.

Promising freshmen are Winslow Rainbolt, Don Stimpson, Joe Charles, Russell Smith, Angelo Costello, Bernard Yorba, Carlton Feemster and Felix Phillips.

CARPENTERS TO MEET

Between 150 and 180 persons are expected to gather at 6:30 p. m. Friday in the club rooms at 402 West Fourth street, where the Santa Ana carpenters local union number 1815 will stage a pot-luck supper, show and dance. Plans for the affair were made public today by Norris Stone.

FISHING PARTY
OFF TODAY

The largest fishing expedition ever gathered in Santa Ana, was scheduled to leave this city at 2:45 p. m. today for Azusa and the Rainbow Angling club. Members of the Kiwanis club, their wives and guests, totaling about 75 persons, were to depart in 15 or 20 cars from Broadway and Santa Clara avenues this afternoon.

The best anglers in the party not only will pull in the most fish, it is expected, but also will be awarded prizes for their ability at annexing trout. According to Gus Leivy, secretary of the club, each fisherman or fisherwoman is entitled to catch three trout free.

NEW CCC CAMP
FOR PROJECT

Approximately 225 men will be stationed at a new CCC camp in this county, where work will be carried on in the campaign against soil erosion, according to Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg. The project will be carried on under direction of the soil erosion service.

The farm advisor's office and other officials have been working for some time to secure a soil erosion demonstration area here. Engineers who have investigated the matter have recommended that an area of 25,000 acres between San Juan Capistrano and Irvine would be a good location for such work.

Such a station would demonstrate how soil erosion can be prevented, so that land owners could learn how to protect their holdings. No location for the new camp has been determined.

RE-ORGANIZATION OF HUNTINGTON BEACH CHAMBER APPROVED

BUSINESS MEN'S PROPOSAL IS ACCEPTED

Consolidation of Two Bodies Starts Today In Beach City

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Wednesday, May 22.—Proposal by the Business Men's association for a complete reorganization of the chamber of commerce was accepted at an adjourned meeting of the chamber yesterday afternoon, Dr. L. F. Whittaker, vice president, who is acting president in the absence of President W. J. Bristol, announced.

The plan as put forward by the Business Men's association calls for a consolidation of the two bodies for the remainder of the year with the avowed purpose of re-writing and altering certain by-laws and possibly the constitution of the chamber.

There will be 30 active members. The business men were to meet today to select 15 of their group to combine with the present 15 directors to form the new unit.

All of the officers will resign before next Monday, when the new body convenes to elect their officials.

A merchants division committee of five men was to be chosen today to attend to the active interests of the city's business and carry on in a lesser degree the work of the Business Men's association.

MRS. L. F. DINGER OF COSTA MESA PASSES AWAY

COSTA MESA, Wednesday, May 22.—Mrs. Louisa Florence Dinger, 68, 325 East Eighteenth street, Costa Mesa, died yesterday at her home.

A native of Iowa, she came to Costa Mesa 12 years ago for her health. She was a member of the Methodist church.

She leaves her husband, Ira Philo Dinger; two sons, Roscoe and Clarence, Uplands, and three daughters, Mrs. Mayne Carich, Oakland; Mrs. Anna Alexander, Los Angeles, and Mrs. Elma Peterson, Maywood.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Thursday in the Dixon chapel at Costa Mesa with Rev. Russell Stroup officiating. Burial will be in Westminster Memorial park.

MIDWAY CITY BOOK CLUB TO MEET MONDAY P. M.

MIDWAY CITY, Wednesday, May 22.—The Book club will meet with Mrs. C. A. Whittier on Adams street next Monday afternoon at 1:45 o'clock. Miss Dorothy Wentz, county librarian, will review Rachel Fields' new book, "Time Out of Mind."

New residents here are Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bonestra of Talbert, who have recently taken the house at 218 North Jackson street. Other new arrivals are Mr. and Mrs. Glenn of Long Beach, who have purchased the property on South Jackson street, formerly owned by Mrs. Gesner.

The recently organized community chorus will meet for regular practice Thursday evening at 7 o'clock at the community hall. Members are Ed L. Hensley, Mrs. Bert Heath, Mrs. N. A. Nelson, Mrs. Pritchard, Mrs. P. H. Marshall, Rev. Clifford Jones, Mrs. Fred Foley, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Harlow, Emmaetta Hart, Lois Hart, Clayton Van Steenberg, and Clarence Wasse. NEWPORT BEACH CITY COUNCIL UNABLE TO CHECK SPEEDERS

NEWPORT BEACH, Wednesday, May 22.—Although more than 40 residents of East Newport presented a petition demanding more stringent traffic regulations to safeguard pedestrians, the Newport Beach city council, in adjourned session this week, was unable to deal successfully with the situation.

The difficulty centers around Bagnia street and Coast boulevard, where residents claim they must run the gauntlet of speeding automobiles in order to cross the highway. They asked the council to establish at least two 25-mile zones.

Council Helpless
However, the council was helpless, since the state law specifies that the speed limit shall be 45 miles per hour in all districts with less than 13 people per quarter mile. Police Chief R. R. Hodgkinson said his department had established crosswalks, but could do no more.

The old question of granting licenses to operators of games such as the flasher boards and skillball was revived with the report of Councilman Gordon, opposed. City Attorney Roland Thompson pointed out that Superior Judges Allen and Ames, in Santa Ana, had ruled in favor of these games because they were within the state law.

The vote was four to one, Gordon voting nay, to grant the licenses.

Ordinance Passed
The interim zoning ordinance, which restricts the business and residential districts, was passed unanimously.

Application for water rights by the new half million-dollar R. C. A. station at the old Huntington Beach race track in the flats was accepted.

SERA headquarters were petitioned for labor on a $5,500 project to repair Sea Shore Colony drive, recently damaged by high waters. The work would take 30 days.

On the first reading, pleasure pier permits were approved to E. Worth, Lido Island, and Mrs. Flora H. Farwell, Balboa, and final permission was given Charles Wenberg, Lido Island.

CLUBMEN HEAR ESTHER GUILD A. F. COREY IN ELECTION

FULLERTON, Wednesday, May 22.—Arthur F. Corey, assistant county superintendent of schools, was speaker at the annual all-Kiwanis night meeting of the Fullerton, La Habra and Buena Park clubs held this week in the Masonic temple here.

Corey spoke on "Platters and People," tracing the life of Josiah Wedgwood, first china manufacturer in England, and using his statement that "the only way to make better dishes was first to make better people."

The meeting was in conjunction with other Kiwanis meetings in the country celebrating opening of the international convention at San Antonio, Texas.

Vocal solos by A. L. Foster and Miss Ruth Tilton and accordion solos by Miss Mildred Viebeck were included on the local program. Cards and dancing followed.

NAME STUDENT LEADERS FRIDAY

GADEN GROVE, Wednesday, May 22.—Student body officers for the Garden Grove high school will be elected Friday, the primary having been held last week. Two tickets, the Progressive Peppers and the Legion, are sponsoring candidates.

Walter Ziegler for the Legion and Clarence Nida for the Peppers were selected as the presidential candidates; for vice president, Frances Merchant, Legion, and Dorothy Beardsley, Peppers, were successful; and the secretarial candidates are Marjorie Brown and Margaret Schauer, both members of the Legion group.

SCOUTS TO SELL FAIR TICKETS

LAGUNA BEACH, Wednesday, May 22.—Harrison E. White, scout executive of Orange county; T. W. Billips, San Juan Capistrano scout master, and G. P. Evans of San Juan Capistrano drove to San Diego Tuesday to buy tickets for the San Diego exposition to be distributed among Boy Scouts of Orange county for sale. The Boy Scouts will sell books of the tickets, the scouts to receive part of the proceeds for their treasury.

GADEN GROVE, Wednesday, May 22.—New officers were chosen for the coming year at the dinner meeting of the Esther Guild society of the First Methodist church held this week. Mrs. Francella Goddard will succeed Mrs. Phyllis Schreff as president.

Other new officers are: Mrs. Vivian Smith, vice president; Miss Mabel Head, corresponding secretary; Miss Lova Holt, recording secretary; Mrs. Mabel Chaffee, mite box chairman; Mrs. Ramah Emley, treasurer.

Reports given included one of a visit to the Church of All Nations at Los Angeles, given by Mrs. Laura Sprinkle and on the conference of the Home Missionary society held recently in Orange.

The dinner hostesses were Mrs. Louise Moore, Miss Lova Holt and Miss Marcella Turner.

For the program the Misses Ethel Chaffee and Lillian Crane sang a duet, with Mrs. Mabel Chaffee accompanying; Miss Velda Barnes read a story, "The First Mite Box Offering"; and the remainder of the evening was spent working on quilt blocks and in making boys' shirts for the David and Margaret Methodist home.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Juanita Harmon, Mrs. Ethel Evans, and Miss Helen Aupperle.

FIRST FIRE OF SEASON BATTLED BY CCC YOUTHS

SAN JUAN HOT SPRINGS, Wednesday, May 22.—The first fire of the season was fought yesterday by CCC boys of Co. 912, San Juan Hot Springs camp. The fire started in the back hills of the McGee ranch and advanced rapidly toward the El Toro region.

Through the quick efforts of the boys under the direction of James Wordie, camp superintendent, the fire was confined to about 40 acres.

With four men confined to the camp hospital with measles, CCC Co. 912, San Juan Hot Springs camp, is quarantined for the next 10 days.

The men ill with measles will be taken to the naval hospital in San Diego. They are James Hudson of Santa Ana, and Clyde Wilson, Jack Deane, and Bernard Reiselman of San Diego.

PROBLEMS OF SCHOOLS ARE DISCUSSED

YORBA LINDA, Wednesday, May 22.—Discussion of school problems featured a meeting of the Yorba Linda Farm Center this week, with Austin Marshburn urging a public meeting to consider future plans for schools in the district.

Marshburn questioned whether buildings at Fullerton Union High school were safe for children, asking if money should be spent on their repair or on construction of new buildings for a junior college. S. M. Rosedale and Fred Johnson also spoke regarding the schools.

J. W. Crill, farm bureau executive, told members of the Yorba Linda center that a draft had been finished yesterday regarding disposal of citrus fruits.

Crill complimented A. C. Pickering of Yorba Linda, who won the wife-calling contest at the farm bureau picnic last week; R. D. Flaherty, executive secretary of the bureau, discussed loans to ranchers under the central housing act; J. P. Fairbanks, extension specialist in agricultural engineering, demonstrated styles in farm buildings, planting arrangements and efficient lighting features; and Phillip C. Hall showed motion pictures of the Redwood Empire.

Rev. J. Hunter Smith announced a dinner at the Methodist church May 28, at which Rev. Bob Shuler will speak.

GARDEN GROVE COUPLE HOSTS

GARDEN GROVE, Wednesday, May 22.—Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Forbach entertained 20 Long Beach and Glendale friends at a party Saturday evening in honor of their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. McKenzie, of Aberdeen, S. D. The Eastern visitors have been spending the winter in Hollywood.

Miss Ellen McKenzie of Hollywood was awarded high score prize for bridge and Mrs. Arnold Fryze of Long Beach, consolation. Supper was served later.

Faculty members of the high school with their husbands and wives met in the home economics room of the school for a dinner and social evening recently. The affair was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Victor McClain and Miss Jessie Files.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Leland Green, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Reasnyder, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Doig, Kenneth Dungan, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. John Ward, J. L. Mitchell, Miss Gladys Hidden, Miss Abby Chapman, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Eidelson.

George Mills, his daughter, Mrs. Ernest Fulson, and Mrs. M. Case-man of Santa Ana are spending this week at Yosemite.

Mrs. E. H. Darling left Saturday for a visit with relatives in Ohio, Kansas and Colorado. She expects to be away most of the summer.

Rodney Collins, president of the Orange county chapter of the American Institute of Banking, with Mrs. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Hall and Miss Marjorie Walton of Santa Ana, attended the installation ceremonies of the Los Angeles chapter at the Ambassador hotel Monday evening.

CLUB TO CARRY ON DURING SUMMER

BARBER CITY, Wednesday, May 22.—Mrs. Alice Bennett Threder, newly elected president of the Barber City Woman's club, announced today that club activities will not cease entirely throughout the summer. The club will hold one meeting each month, and will sponsor a community potluck supper in the clubhouse on the fourth Thursday of each month. The club membership has recently been greatly increased and is now a federated club.

A box social will be held at the Woman's clubhouse Saturday evening. Amusing features are being arranged.

JOHN E. COYNER TAKEN BY DEATH

ANAHEIM, Wednesday, May 22.—John Edward Coyner, 70, resident of Anaheim for 15 years, died in a local sanitarium early yesterday. No announcement has been made of funeral arrangements, pending word from relatives in the East.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Cora P. Coyner; a daughter, Miss Helen Coyner of Los Angeles; a sister, Mrs. Harriet Ashcroft of Eagle Rock; and two brothers, Fred Coyner of Linden, O., and Crawford Coyner of Keystone, Neb.

Laguna Party Honors Girl Scouts

LAGUNA BEACH, Wednesday, May 22.—Honoring the retiring council, Mrs. Henry Kenyon Beckwith, newly elected commissioner of the Laguna Beach Girl Scouts, entertained 70 scouts and officers with a dinner and picnic on the beach in front of her ocean front home in Laguna Tuesday evening. Games were enjoyed on the beach and in the house.

Retiring officers honored by the party were Mrs. Ruby Hickox, former commissioner; Mrs. Earl Hatheway, former vice commissioner; and Mrs. Ajax Wolfe, former secretary.

Newly-elected council members of the Girl Scouts also present were Mrs. Henry Kenyon Beckwith, commissioner and hostess for the evening; Mrs. Roy Ropp, vice commissioner; Mrs. Foster Elliot, secretary; Mrs. H. Heisler, treasurer; and members of the council board, Mrs. Ruby Hickox, Mrs. Ajax Wolfe, Mrs. N. E. West, and Captains Ida Griffith and Katherine Grassie.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gross of Los Angeles visited the Misses Ada and Ella Donkin in Laguna Beach Tuesday. The Misses Donkin have been spending several weeks in the Case cottage in Laguna and will return to their home in Hollywood soon.

Miss Anette Kinney of Los Angeles arrived Tuesday to visit her aunt, Miss Ann Mason, of Laguna Beach, for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Windsor of Los Angeles are spending a two weeks vacation in Honeyuckle lodge in Laguna Beach.

CLUB SELECTS PRESIDENT

LAGUNA BEACH, Wednesday, May 22.—Members of the San Juan Capistrano Women's club met Tuesday afternoon and elected Mrs. Aaron Buchheim president in place of Mrs. Doris Bathgate, who was recently elected but who resigned. Other officers, named at the recent annual election, are: Vice president, Mrs. Evelyn Forrester; secretary, Mrs. Ruth Walters; treasurer, Mrs. Marie Esslinger; and recording secretary, Mrs. Mottie Rogers.

A special meeting will be held at the San Juan Capistrano high school next month to install new officers, to which the San Juan Capistrano club has invited members of the San Clemente Women's club as guests.

100 ATTEND LUNCH AT WOMAN'S CLUB

BUENA PARK, Wednesday, May 22.—More than 100 persons attended the courtesy luncheon sponsored by the Woman's club in the clubhouse Monday.

Following luncheon, Mrs. Jackman gave an address on domestic science. A drawing was won by Mrs. Lottie Haggerty, Mrs. Irene Couts, Mrs. C. O'Brien, Mrs. Peggy Ament, Mrs. Geo. W. Wright and Mrs. Eleanor Jones. During the afternoon cards were played, and first bridge prize being won by Mrs. MacBride of La Habra and second by Mrs. Carl Brenner. Mrs. C. O. O'Brien of Anaheim won the prize for 500-, and Mrs. E. F. Zimmer of Anaheim a special prize. Mrs. J. F. Wagg headed the committee that had charge of arrangements.

The Eastern Star chapter held a short session Monday, after which they gave a shower honoring Miss Lloyd Allin, who is to be a bride in June.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Showell were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. War-lumont and daughter, Marie, at dinner in Santa Ana Sunday evening.

DEATH SUMMONS DANIEL F. M'GRAW

ANAHEIM, Wednesday, May 22.—Daniel F. McGraw, 78, a resident of Anaheim since last November and a long-time resident of San Jose, where he practiced dentistry, died Sunday night at his home on Euclid avenue.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Emma Louise McGraw, and two sons, Sidney A. McGraw of Fullerton, and Cyril A. McGraw of San Jose. Funeral services and burial will be held in San Jose.

VALENCIA HIGH GETS FROSH

PLACENTIA, Wednesday, May 22.—All first-year students will be required to attend Valencia High school next year, it has been decided by the board of education of the Placentia school district.

Previously students of all classes had been permitted to attend other schools, with many continuing their work at Fullerton Union High school, from which the Placentia district withdrew over two years ago.

Plan New Buildings
The board also ordered plans prepared for two new buildings for Valencia High school, urging that T. C. Kistner, school architect, rush the work so that the buildings may be used at the beginning of the new school term.

One building will contain show-ers, coaches' offices and lockers and will be so constructed that the main floor of a gymnasium may be added in the future. Cost was estimated by Kistner at $15,000.

The second structure will be used as a manual training unit by both the high and elementary schools, it was decided.

Howard Hawkins was elected as instructor of the Smith-Hughes agricultural course which will start next year in the high school. Salary was set at $1,800.

The board awarded contracts for materials on the new high school building now under construction to the Vance Roofing company on a bid of $655. The Continental Specialty Company was awarded the contract for steel sash at $1,312 and the Santa Ana Lumber company the contract for millwork at $1,168.50.

PROFESSOR TAKES ROLE IN DRAMA AT LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, Wednesday, May 22.—Barton Bachmann, who will play the title role in "Beethoven's Symphony" at the Laguna Beach Community playhouse May 24 and 25, is head of the music department at Redlands university. He is a pianist, and has been heard in concert both in this country and abroad. Added to this, his physical resemblance to Beethoven makes him ideal for the part.

Miss Dewey Deal, author and director of the concert-drama, and Miss Ruth Hoss, who takes the part of the comtesse whom Beethoven loved, both live in Laguna, and for the past year have been active in theatrical circles here.

Miss Deal is working on another concert-drama which will present the life and music of Franz Liszt.

$33,000 HIGHWAY PROGRAM PLANNED

COSTA MESA, Wednesday, May 22.—Reconstruction of highways and new extensions entailing an expenditure of $33,000 has been planned for the Costa Mesa district, it was announced today by Supervisor N. E. West. The improvement of Valencia and Central avenues, which will cost $28,000, is the largest single expenditure.

Present plans show that Central avenue will be extended to the Laguna Beach cut-off and Valencia avenue will be extended from Newport road to Culver road. A granite and rock foundation will be laid for both projects with a macadam surface pavement.

San Clemente Club Names Officers

LAGUNA BEACH, Wednesday, May 22.—The annual election of the Women's club of San Clemente was held in the Social club Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Sally May Lockwood was elected president; Mrs. Rebecca Fate, vice president; Mrs. Clare Hogeland, secretary; and Mrs. Jeanette Riley, treasurer. All officers were unanimously chosen. Mrs. Hogeland and Mrs. Riley were re-elected to their respective offices.

Mrs. G. E. Higgins, former president of the club, presided, and was chosen hostess to a tea in the clubhouse honoring the new president and officers following the election.

Reports of the three sections of the club and 10 committees were read and approved by the women. Reports were given by the following chairmen of the various sections and committees: Mrs. A. T. Smith, chairman of the music section; Mrs. Mary E. Neddermeyer, who reported for the garden section for Mrs. Virginia Hogeland, absent because of illness; Miss Jennie Lane, arts and crafts; Mrs. Sarah Gallagher, ways and means committee; Mrs. Sarah Rogers, new members; Mrs. Sarah Gal-lagher, parliamentary; Miss Emma J. Oehsen, civic; Miss Effie Johnson, program; Mrs. Nell Fate, hospitality; Mrs. Grace Leak, house; Mrs. Patricia Divil, custodian; Mrs. Mary E. Neddermeyer, publicity; and Mrs. Jewell I. Chalk, pianist. The next meeting will be a dinner at the Emporium cafe on June 4. The club plans to hold picnics during the summer months instead of indoor meetings.

COMMENCEMENT SET FOR VALLEY SCHOOL

TALBERT, Wednesday, May 22.—Commencement exercises of the Fountain Valley school will take place on the evening of June 6 in the school auditorium. The program will include a class play.

The seventh grade will honor the graduating class with a party at the beach. Class officers are president, Floyd Wardlow; vice president, Manuel Grijada, and class secretary, Martha Ota.

BALLOTING TO FEATURE MEET

GARDEN GROVE, Wednesday, May 22.—Mrs. Ethel Schauer, matron of the Garden Grove chapter of the Eastern Star, has announced that balloting will be a feature of the meeting to be held Thursday evening at the K. of P. hall in Anaheim.

The Monday Afternoon Star club will meet May 27 at the home of Mrs. Maggie Mae Reed on East Accacia street, with Mrs. Frank Kendall and Mrs. J. J. Henry as co-hostesses.

Prizes to newspapers of Orange county high schools will be presented at the banquet for the best front pages, best sports page, best feature page, best news story, best sport story, best feature story, and best all-round paper. Anaheim, Orange, Tustin, Fullerton, Brea-Olinda, Huntington Beach, and Garden Grove high schools have entered the contest.

Awards also will be given to the editors of El Don who have served during the past year.

The editors and advisers of Orange county high school newspapers and yearbooks and editors and publishers of community papers of Orange county will be guests of El Don at the annual banquet.

VETS URGED TO FILE EXEMPTION

Veterans are being urged by County Assessor James Sleeper to file their claims for tax exemption immediately. He said the time for closing the exemption list is drawing near and unless the applications are filed before work of making out the 1935-36 tax bills gets under way, the veterans who have not filed will lose their exemption for that fiscal year.

Blanks for making claims for exemption are obtainable at his office, Sleeper said. Every veteran is entitled to $1000 exemption on the assessed value of real personal property.

Cows Cooperate, Cut Production Of Milk Here

Orange county cows are cooperating with the administration's program for curtailment of production it appeared today.

Assistant Farm Advisor W. M. Cory said that production of butter fat per cow for the first four months of the year shows a decrease of 24 pounds, in comparison with production for the same period in 1934.

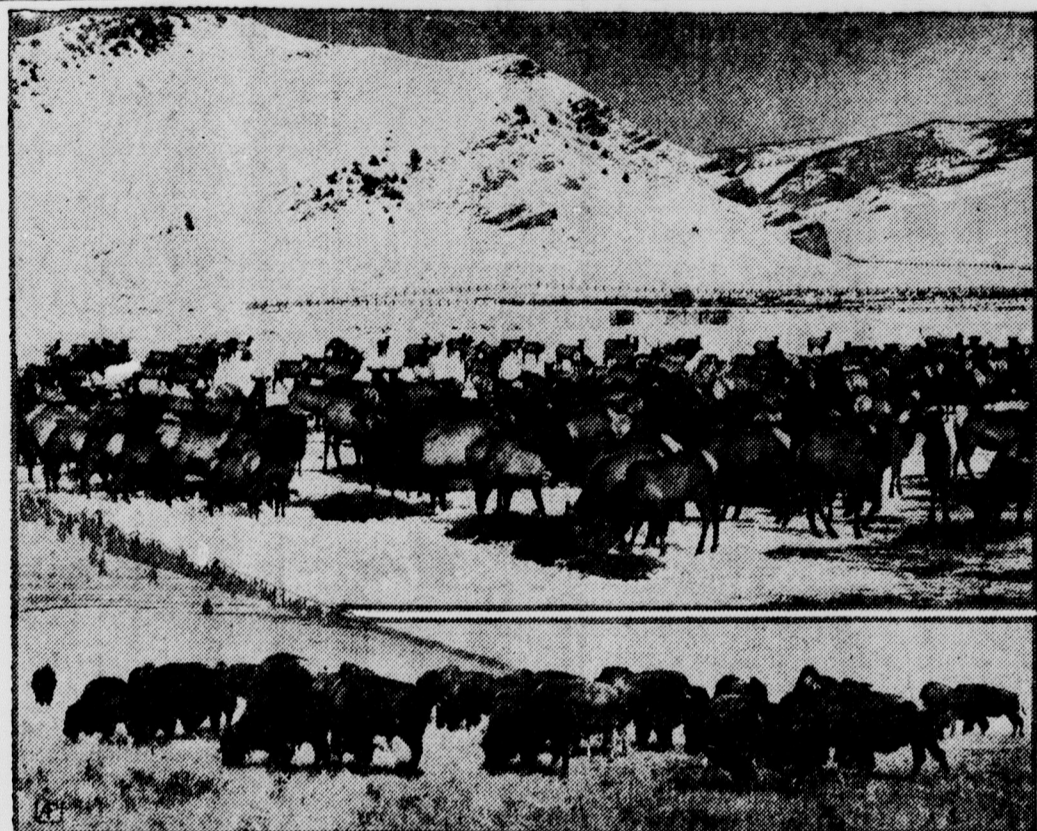

However, when it comes to milk, the cows are not all good democrats throughout the nation, Mr. Cory's report showed, for crop correspondents working with the bureau of agricultural economics report production of between 2 and 3 per cent more milk per cow than for last year. The number of milk cows on farms appears to be 5 per cent less than last year, making total production about 2 per cent less than on May 1, 1934.

TO GIVE CARD PARTY

To raise a building fund for a new kitchen, the Holy Name society of St. Joseph's church will hold a public card party in the school annex tonight at 8 o'clock. Prizes will be awarded, and refreshments will be served. Joe Haupt is chairman of the event.

PLAN TEST FOR RADIO MUSIC

An innovation in musical education, a radio music test over KREG, will be given elementary school children throughout Orange county Tuesday morning, May 28, at 9:30 o'clock, Mrs. Mabel Spizzy, county music supervisor, has announced.

Results of the test will have no effect on grades of the students, Mrs. Spizzy said. It will be solely a recreational quiz. So far as she knows, such a test has never been given over radio.

Examination will be made on 10 points. Students will be asked to name different instruments in solo numbers; to name different instruments composing ensemble numbers; to name different ways instruments are played, by blowing, bowing, or striking; to give different themes in a selection; to identify waltz, gavotte, and minuet scores; to know different folk songs with nationality; to differentiate kinds of marches, such as funeral, triumphal, wedding, religious, and military; to remember selections being played; to identify composer with the selection; and to identify the nationality of the composer.

GETS 20 DAYS ON ARMS COUNT

A. Munoz, arrested May 3 on a charge of possession of firearms by an alien, appeared before Presiding Judge James L. Allen yesterday and changed his plea from not guilty to guilty. He was sentenced to serve 20 days in the county jail with time already served to apply on the sentence.

Munoz was found in possession of a pocket knife with an attachment for shooting .22 calibre bullets. The "pistol" was discovered in a trunk at his home. In pleading guilty Munoz gave satisfactory evidence that the pistol was a souvenir and had been in his possession for more than 10 years.

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 22. (AP)—The "vanishing" big game animal of the west isn't vanishing any more—in fact his tribe steadily increases.

The United States bureau of biological survey, which has refugees scattered all over the country for the protection of animals and fowls, says such typical pioneer specimens as buffalo, elk and antelope not only are doing fairly well in preserving their species, but sometimes get too numerous for their area and some have to be killed or given to the states.

Migration Eastward

Along with this development, bureau experts note a decided tendency toward an animal migration, although the wanderers so far are principally of the predatory sort, eastward—back toward homelands of a bygone century. The reason for this strange return, they say, is two-fold.

First, tourists in the west have the habit of picking up cubs they think are cute and taking them back east where escape or granted freedom often follows. Lone coyotes have been reported in many far-scattered areas of the east, even on the Atlantic seaboard.

Second, the administration's program toward retirement of unsuitable agricultural lands, along with drought, is encouraging a return to those areas of animals whose forebears were driven out in the westward movement of the plow last century.

Elk Number 120,000

As to western game animals such as buffalo, elk and antelope, the bureau says they are slowly getting more numerous. Its estimates now are that there are in this country 4,700 buffalo, 55,000 antelope and 120,000 elk.

These totals are trifling compared to what they were 50 years ago—when all species ran into so many thousands no authority will hazard an estimate of the totals. The process of destruction rolled on at a progressively advancing rate. However, the job of rehabilitating herds has been speeded up to a point where the decline has been checked and the trend is upward.

Some Buffalo Are Sold

In the Montana bison range, a typical reserve for the species, numbers have reached recently as high as 600, whereas the desired level, to avoid overcrowding and consequent destruction of soil covering, is nearer 500. Thus some buffalo are sold from time to time to local butchers. Others are turned over to Indian agencies, loosed on reservations and hunted by the redskins. None of the meat is wasted, officials say.

Similarly, elk numbers are reduced when they get too high. In a Wyoming elk reserve last winter the herd had to be reduced to range capacity by killing a considerable number of animals. This was done by game officials on foot. Airplanes had been used in making a survey as to the extent of the herd.

SON BORN

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Housley of 721 Grand avenue, Orange, announce the arrival of a son, James Lawrence, born Friday night, May 17, at the Sargeant Maternity home. The baby weighed 6 pounds, 10 ounces. Mrs. Housley will return to her home Sunday.

N. H. Casler, local store manager, held a meeting Monday night at James' cafe for Orange county Firestone dealers. H. J. Benninger, assistant branch manager from Los Angeles, presented motion picture showing the manufacturing process in the Firestone factories. About 50 dealers attended.

GROUP TO HOLD BIG MEETING

Assembling from six camps, more than 200 delegates are expected to attend the annual district meeting of Golden State Royal Neighbors of America camp 10653 tonight at 8 o'clock in the K. of C. hall.

Mrs. Christiana Hammill of Glendale, state supervising deputy, will be an honored guest. Mrs. Elva Crawford, oracle, will preside.

Initiatory rites for candidates from visiting and the hostess camps will be conducted by the Orange county degree staff. A brief program has been planned, and a seven-piece dance orchestra will play following the camp meeting.

Decorations have been planned for the event, and refreshments will be served.

SANTA ANA FIRM STAGES PICNIC

More than 300 persons attended a picnic given Sunday afternoon by the Richards Trucking and Warehouse company of Los Angeles and Santa Ana. The picnic was held in Irvine park, near Santa Ana.

Members of many business concerns in Santa Ana were the guests of the transportation organization. Families and friends of the commercial associates of the company also were present, as was the personnel of the three major terminals of the company.

After a picnic lunch, games and athletic contests were organized.

The picnic is a semi-annual affair. This is the first time, however, that the business associates of the firm have attended.

BOARD ORDERS NEW SEDAN

Purchase of a light sedan for use in the road department was authorized by the board of supervisors yesterday. The motion to purchase the car was made by Supervisor W. C. Jerome.

In suggesting a new car, Jerome said that at present there is no emergency automobile in county service. When a car is forced into the shop the department to which it is assigned is without the service of one automobile until repairs are completed, he said. In assigning the new automobile to the road department, another car, purchased for that department several months ago, will be designated as an emergency car and not to be used except in replacing an automobile temporarily out of service.

OTHER OFFICERS ARE ELECTED AT SESSION

Dr. George Warner Is Picked for Vice Chairman's Job

The Orange County State Emergency Relief administration committee figuratively took off its coat yesterday afternoon and worked rapidly on reorganization.

S. W. McColloch of Placentia, chairman since the present group was formed about two months ago, opened the session by nominating W. W. Hay of Brea as permanent chairman.

Immediately after his election, Mr. Hay removed his coat, hung it on a chair and took charge. The committee then elected Dr. George Warner of Santa Ana vice chairman, named Mr. McColloch secretary, and designated Miss Amanda Newman acting secretary. Miss Newman is secretary to Director Terrence Halloran.

Change Tway's Job

The next step was appointment of William J. Tway as head of the works division of the SERA. Mr. Tway has been in charge of the placement bureau. This action was a step toward putting into effect the policy of the state organization as expressed last week by Virgil Dahl, assistant to M. H. Lewis, who is field agent for the SERA in California.

Mr. Dahl said it was his opinion from observation that such an organization as the state favors along this line will be put into effect under the new national works program being formed by President Roosevelt. He also said that the goal of the new program has been practically achieved here because all SERA men are on work relief.

To Rebuild School

The committee next approved a project for demolition of the Brea-Olinda grammar school, the labor cost for which was estimated at $10,927, with material and supervision cost placed at $2326. The project will provide work for 35 men for a total of 384 man-hours. Rebuilding of the school may cost $100,000, it was estimated.

A petition was presented by a group of workers on a project at the Newport harbor high school, in which complaints of unfair treatment were made against Foreman Rawlins. The committee instructed Mr. Ray to communicate with the school board.

Plan Training School

Mr. Dahl told the group that a training school for SERA social workers capable of promotion will be held at Riverside beginning next Monday, and that five local SERA workers will be sent.

Director Halloran announced that the Orange county SERA budget will be $260,000 for the coming month, which he estimated will be sufficient. He also said that the rural rehabilitation project now being considered under the new works program would require an expenditure of about $64,000,000 in California.

WALNUT GROWERS MEET IN SANTA PAULA JUNE 8

Orange county walnut growers will join others throughout the Southland on June 8 in a pilgrimage to Santa Paula for the annual inter-county walnut growers field day, it was announced at the farm advisor's office here today.

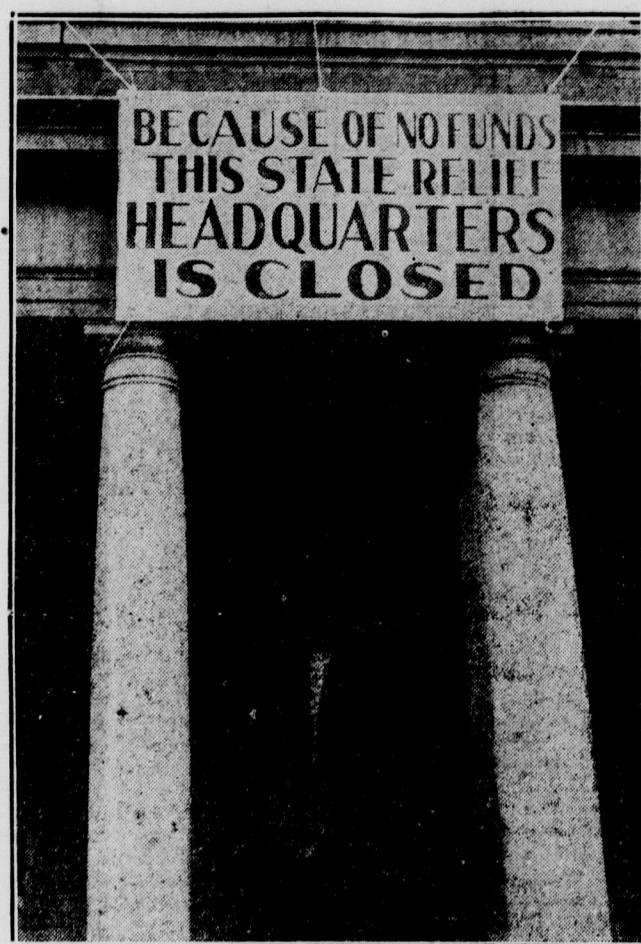

Sessions will start at 9:45 a. m. in the gymnasium of the Santa Paula high school. A. D. Smiley of Garden Grove, chairman of the inter-county walnut department of the farm bureau, will preside.

Seven Santa Ana men interested in the game known as "roque" met last night in the offices of the city building inspector and organized a roque club. G. E. Schriever was elected president, and O. S. Johnston, 1244 South Broadway, secretary. The other five members of the club are J. S. Mills, R. L. Stoddard, M. B. Lesher, John Kellogg, and John Knox.

Recently, two roque courts were constructed in Santa Ana as a part of the SERA recreational program. The courts are located on West Walnut street near the city yards. Orange has three such courts. In the past, men who were interested in the game had to go to Long Beach in order to

CLOSED IN CRISIS

This sign appeared over the entrance to the Illinois Emergency Relief office in Chicago, as the State House of Representatives failed for the fourth time to adopt legislation to provide $3,000,000 a month as the state's share, in order to gain a Federal relief allotment.

THE 'POPPY LADY'S' BEEN AROUND

When a bare spot in Orange county suddenly blossoms out in resplendent California poppies, it generally means that Santa Ana's "poppy lady" has been out that way.

For years, Miss Susie Temple and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Temple of 1502 North Broadway, have scattered poppy seeds along the road when they have taken jaunts to nearby spots. Whenever they came upon a desolate looking spot, they'd scatter some of their seeds. The road to Irvine park and spots along Laguna Beach were recent plots to receive their floral sowing. Some were planted last year along Santa Ana boulevard.

The annual harvest from the lot of flowers adjoining the Temple residence has just been made. About a pint of seeds has been gathered this year. Sometimes more than a quart is gathered.

For three years, the lot next door has been covered for more than three months of the year with the yellowish-orange poppies, while blossoms showing here and there. This year's crop was declared by Mrs. Temple to be the thickest yet. She said many passing motorists have slowed down to view the flowers, and many persons have picked great bouquets of the blossoms.

PLAN TO GREET VISITORS

Definite steps toward entertaining visitors to the San Diego exposition when they pass through Orange county were taken last night at a meeting of the Orange County Coast association in Bird's cafe at Laguna Beach. V. D. Johnson, county publicity director, and Howard I. Wood, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, were named as a committee to confer with other chamber secretaries in launching the project.

Wood and several other speakers urged that every effort should be made to capitalize on Orange county's exhibit at the San Diego fair. Signs should be erected, and perhaps lighted, at the county's entrances, notable fair visitors should be invited to Orange county, and every other possible effort should be made to attract exposition tourists here and show them the advantages of the county, speakers said.

Harry Welch of Newport Beach, E. B. Sharpley of Santa Ana, H. H. Henshaw, and Claude D. Lindsay of Santa Ana, spoke in favor of the movement.

County School Superintendent Ray Adkinson said that many school districts are planning to close on May 31, which will be Orange county school day at the fair.

ROQUE PLAYERS FORM CLUB HERE, PLAN TOURNAMENTS

If approved by this board, the plan will be referred to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace for approval. Before going to the control board, however, the plan will be taken up by the growers' advisory committee which will meet at Los Angeles Friday.

The plan as now proposed would involve elimination of lower grades of fruit from the market. The committee which now controls distribution of fruit under the California-Arizona marketing agreement would administer the control plan.

Present plans call for roque tournaments to be played between members of the club and possibly tournaments with other clubs will be arranged later.

The game is a development of croquet, and is played with a mallet, hard rubber balls and wickets.

BOARD TO OKEH CITY STREET WORK FUND

The city of Santa Ana was told to go ahead with its street improvement program by the board of supervisors yesterday despite the fact that the board failed to adopt a resolution authorizing expenditure of $5,248.71 from gasoline tax receipts allocated to the county.

A resolution, similar to the one passed Monday night by the Santa Ana city council, was presented to the supervisors late yesterday, but action was delayed one week due to the absence of Supervisors N. C. West, from the fifth district, and Willard Smith, of the second district. Postponement of the vote was necessitated by the law which requires a four-fifths vote on matters requiring allocation of funds.

In delaying action on the request for allocation of gasoline tax money for improvement of city streets, the board instructed County Engineer Nat H. Neff to notify city officials that the work can get under way and the resolution will be approved at the next meeting of the board. All members of the board have signified they will approve the proposal.

NEW PROJECTS TO PUT 69 TO WORK

Jobs for 69 men will be provided when four new SERA projects start in Orange county Friday. The projects include a new concrete bridge over Basque avenue, Fullerton employing 43 men; general repair work on the Huntington Beach elementary school, using 12 men; beautification of the southern part of the coast highway, employing eight men; and erection of a grandstand in a Seal Beach ball park, providing jobs for six men.

BACK BUDGET MEASURE

Cantando Club Singers Score Triumph in Final Concert of Current Year

Orange H. S. Auditorium Packed; Luboviski Soloist

By ELLEN SNEBLEY

Triumph for Cantando!
Climaxing a year of intensive work, the Cantando club, with Calmon Luboviski, noted violin virtuoso, as guest artist, presented its third and last concert of the season last night before an enthusiastic capacity audience in Orange Union High school auditorium.

Leon Eckles directed and Miss Ruth Armstrong played piano accompaniments for the 54 men singers of the club. Immaculately smart in black and white, the singers rose and seated themselves in unison and presented an imposing picture on the auditorium stage.

The men got off to a lusty start in the first song on the program, "The Sailor So Trusty" (G. B. Bononcini). The rhythmic song was well done and its crescendos and diminuendos faithfully executed.

"Rolling Down to Rio" (German) followed the same mood-trend. The third number, "Songs My Mother Taught Me" (Anton Dvorak), was softly and melodiously sung.

"The Gypsy" Opens
Mr. Luboviski opened his program with a pleasing song, "The Gypsy" (Ellis Levy), rich with many strains. Followed Mischa Elman's arrangement of Franz Schubert's "Serenade." Extreme tenderness characterized the violinist's interpretation of the "Serenade," and the contrast was noticeable in the gay "Flight" by Kochanski, last number in his first group. Miss Armstrong gave him splendid support in the quick "Flight" number. His encore was "Saint-Saens' The Swan."

"Lo, a Voice to Heaven Sound" (Bortniansky) was a beautifully done a cappella number, and showed forth Mr. Eckles' complete familiarity with sacred music.

Activities Reviewed
Prolonged applause necessitated the repetition of "The Bird of the Wilderness" by Horsman, a song which moves smoothly into a thrilling climax. "Moonlight on the Water" (G. Rossini) was especially well interpreted by the singers.

Just before the intermission, G. R. Stoner, Cantando club president, reviewed the club's activities for the past year, and after explaining its wide scope and worthwhile aims, invited guests present to take associate memberships next season.

"Singing comes naturally from people of all different occupations in this land of ours," he said. He also lauded Mr. Eckles and Miss Armstrong for their untiring work with the club. Miss Armstrong, who was attractively gowned in pink chiffon, was presented with a huge floral basket from the club.

Discuss Program
Intermission afforded an opportunity for the hundreds of music lovers, associate members and their guests, to mingle and discuss the program in the lobby of the auditorium.

"Beautiful Dreamer," a serene and melodious number by Stephen Foster, opened the second part of the program by the club. "Song of the Steppes," a difficult Tschalkowsky number with weird accompaniment, was excellently done.

Mr. Luboviski reappeared to do first "Ave Maria" (Schubert-Wilhelm), which afforded him an opportunity to display his mastery of pianissimo tones. "Hora Sacato," Roumanian air by Dinicu-Helfetz, followed. "Introduction et Tarantelle" (Pablo de Sarasate) was perhaps the most appealing of all his numbers. He followed it with an encore, the lovely Brahms "Waltz in A flat." He was given a lengthy applause for his part in the evening's program.

Bagpipe Tun. Features
"Far off in the Waste of Desert Sand," a colorful number by H. N. Bartlett, was next sung by the club. One of the most popular songs of the evening was the rollicking "The Galway Piper," an Irish folk song arranged by Davison and featuring a bagpipe tune in the accompaniment. This song the club was obliged to repeat for the audience, which clapped eagerly.

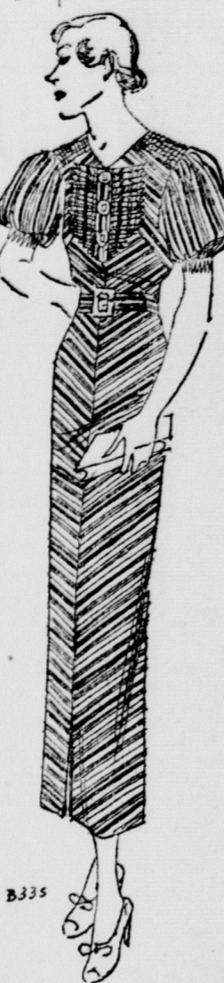

"De Campdown Races" (Stephen Foster) displayed the versatility of the men singers, who swung from Ireland to the deep south and "got the spirit" most successfully in both cases. The spiritual was well received.

The highly inspirational and understandingly executed "Service" by the California composer, Charles Wakefield Cadman, brought to a close the brilliant concert.

Students Are Ushers
Ushers and ushers, the latter wearing very pretty formal frocks, were from the music classes of Orange Union high school. They were Weldon Dillingham, Nelson Kogler, Charles Armstrong, Vernon Obarr, Dale Curry, Sam Cooper, Donald Krueger, Alice Des Larzes, Miriam Powell, Phyllis Kogler, Helen Mollica, Ruby Armstrong, Laura Friedrich, Barbara Sutherland, Mary Moore, Marysear Wood, Barbara Hallman, Oscar Lieffers, Clarence Borchard, Dick Harbottle, Lewellyn Williams, Nettie Willoughby, Dorothy Flintham, Helen Price, Bette Kingsley, Doris Asher, Jean Jordan and Wilma Stanfield.

Singing last night were: L. B. Babbit, Theo. Bayz, J. H.

Rowena Newcomb Installed As Wrycende Maegdenu Leader

A new staff of executives, headed by Miss Rowena Newcomb, pledged leadership to Wrycende Maegdenu last night when installation services were held in conjunction with the annual mother-daughter banquet in the Y. W. C. A. rooms.

Tribute was paid in a toast to mothers by Mrs. Virginia Fritcher, vice president-elect. Response was made by Mrs. Rose E. Ford, mother of Mary Ford, retiring president. From the Santa Ana Symphony orchestra, a trio composed of Mrs. Calvin Flint, Mrs. Faye Spicer and Miss Audrey Peiper, played two numbers, "The Swan," by Saint-Saens, and "Song Without Words," by Tschalkowsky.

In a room lighted only by candles in tall candelabra, Miss Mabel McFadden, president of the Y. W. C. A., touched off a central candle. Miss Mary Howard, executive secretary, lighted the candle of Miss Ford, who in turn spread the light to other retiring officers. From their tapers, the new executives lighted candles.

Members of the organization joined the officers, making a complete circle of lights.

A group recessional from the room was made, with the entire organization singing "Follow the Gleam."

New officers installed included Miss Newcomb, president; Mrs. Fritcher, vice president; Miss Maurine Dalton, secretary; Miss Jean Ema, treasurer, and Miss Dorothy Lindsey, membership chairman.

Tips On Contract

By TOM O'NEIL
Sims Three Bid

The original bid of three in a suit devised by P. Hal Sims is a very efficient method of starting toward slams and continuing to the right point only.

So far as I am concerned the only trouble with it is that I have never held a hand warranting it. Which reminds me that David Burnstine once was asked if he used it and he replied:

"I can't say I smoke dollar cigars just because a fellow once gave me one for Christmas."

With this bid the trump suit is predetermined and the maker of the bid wants aces shown by the responding hand, highest ranking first. Game at the suit named is guaranteed.

In his 150-rubber match with Ely Culbertson, Hal never had cards warranting use of his special bid. Perhaps it's because Hal and golfers seem to have an affinity for each other. He's quite a golfer himself and many of the pros use his system. Anyhow I visited the Garden City, N. Y., Country club recently. A gale caused interruption of golf for bridge, and in the course of five rubbers there were three Sims three bids.

One of them was made by the pro, Jimmy Hines. He had a long diamond suit with the top, a king in one outside suit and an ace in the other. In response to the opening three diamonds partner bid the suit in which Jimmy had a loser and Jimmy went to six diamonds. It was a laydown against any opening, since a queen in partner's hand was in the same suit as Jimmy's outside king.

In another hand my partner opened with three spades and I had nothing much but six clubs to the king-jack. I bid three no trump to show lack of aces. My partner went to five spades for a reason I could not fathom and there the bidding stopped. He just made five, having a fit with my clubs.

Then came the prize hand:

NORTH
♠ A Q 7 6 5
♥ 10 9 8 7 6 5
♣ A 9 2
WEST
♠ K 2
♥ K J 4 3
♦ 10
♣ K J 10 8 7 5
EAST
♠ 10 9 6 4
♥ 10 2
♦ A Q 8 7 5 3
♣ A K J 9

Harry C. Leyser, who is as clever at making tough bridge hands, or any kind of hands, as Jimmy Hines is at making golf shots, opened with three spades. Came the orthodox four club bid from North to show the ace of clubs. South bid four diamonds. North offered four hearts to show length in hearts, since he had denied possession of the heart ace. South signed off at four spades. North went to five diamonds, thinking it might be valuable information to South to show aid for diamonds. As a matter of fact the bid was futile. Leyser then went to six spades. West doubled, disliking the bidding.

I sat East, expecting a nice set, in view of my partner's double, but truth is that Leyser made his slam. West opened the singleton diamond, which was won with the jack South. The ace of hearts was played, followed by the nine of diamonds. West refused to ruff. If he trumped his king would drop. He disliked to have to lead from his tenaces and couldn't imagine possession of some spades East. The diamond nine took the trick.

That was enough for the declarer. He led the ace of spades followed with the three spot, which West had to take with the king. West led the king of hearts, South trumped and the party was over. My four spades to the ten-nine failed to take a trick.

If only West had trumped that diamond, I surely would have taken a spade trick.

Of course, the hand could have been made anyhow, if South after taking the first diamond, played the ace of spades, followed by a

HONOR L. BROWNS AT MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER SUNDAY

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hatch Brown, a group of friends and relatives gathered at Irvine park for a picnic dinner and surprise miscellaneous shower Sunday.

Mrs. Brown will be remembered as the former Miss Emma Chastain who lived in Santa Ana for many years previous to her marriage May 6 at the parsonage home of the Rev. W. Schimmoek of Trinity Lutheran church.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown are at home at 2600 W. Eighth street in Los Angeles.

The affair was planned by the bride's aunts, Mrs. J. J. Henry and Mrs. Roy Schalten of this city, who arranged the decorations for the picnic table all in the bridal theme. Gifts were presented the honored couple at the close of the dinner hour.

Those present were the bride's father and mother, Wm. Lee Chastain and Leslie Chastain of El Monte; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gerken and children, Lucille and Dick; Mrs. Billy Gerken, and Margaret and Betty Lee Stevens, all of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Hamerschmidt and children, Richard, Edwin, Clara and Ellen, of Lakeview; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cordes and daughter, Mildred, of Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Swofor and children, Elma May and Gordon, of Atwood; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Schalten and son, Happy; Miss Kastoff, and Mr. and Mrs. James J. Henry and children, Eleanor and James, all of Santa Ana.

Santa Ana Junior Ebell household economics section members heard an informative discussion on interior decorating by Miss Edith Hynes of Los Angeles, formerly of Santa Ana, at the section meeting Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Ralph Liverspire, 1319 North Bristol street.

Mrs. George Bradley, new section leader, conducted a short business session.

Mrs. H. R. Smith, co-hostess for the meeting, and Mrs. Bradley presided at the tea table in the social half-hour which followed the program.

Others present were Dr. Margaret Baker, Miss Betty Smith, and Mmes. J. K. Norton, Charles Weber, Tom Rhone, R. C. Harris, Robert Hoefner, Gilbert Meisinger, Don Park, M. N. Thompson, LeRoy Burns and Virgil Harmon.

GROUP ECONOMICS SECTION HEARS DECORATOR

Selections from the school opéra, "Palace of Carelessness," which is being presented tonight, were given. Marjorie Coe, as Mr. Clock, sang a solo. Drusilla Clem as Mrs. Umbrella and Patricia Sharples as the flapper, Umbrella, assisted by Ruth Anderson, Dorothy White, Eugenia Bond, Glenna Jean Deardorff, and Marjorie Sewell of the Umbrella chorus, danced. Raymond Boefe accompanied. In the role of an organ grinder, he played an accordion solo.

Presentation of the president's gavel was made to Mrs. R. E. Steinberger, new president, who introduced her staff of officers. A past president's pin was awarded Mrs. James Givens who officiated as president for the last time this year at last night's meeting.

Approval of June 7 as the date for the school picnic at Irvine park was made at the meeting. Mrs. Forrest Menzie is to head the committee in charge.

Refreshments were served by mothers of first grade students.

HARMONY BRIDGE CLUB HAS LUNCHEON PARTY

Harmony Bridge club members were entertained by Frances Dennis and Mildred Snyder at a 12:30 o'clock luncheon yesterday in the Masonic temple.

Five tables of bridge were in play in the afternoon. Prizes were won by Pearl Lycan, Nelle Spaug and Dollie Dimmitt.

Others present were Mary Adrian, Flora Bruns, Lillian Dawson, Winnie Dean, Elsie Edwards, Julia Foust, Betty Gowdy, Evelyn Hersher, Amanda Holmes, Elizabeth Jerigan, Elizabeth Kloess, Naomi Steele, Florence Wright, Nellie Young, Gertrude Walden, Stella McFaren and Georgia Wyckoff.

low spade. But he justifiably assumed from the double that the spades were bunched West and he was trying desperately to mitigate bad distribution. As soon as West refused to trump the diamond, Leyser read West for possession of only two spades to the king.

Mrs. Bess A. Garner, who has just returned from a short visit in Mexico City, will direct the Padua Hills Mexican players in an evening of Mexican and early California folk songs and dances Friday at 8 o'clock in Fremont school auditorium.

The players are being brought to Santa Ana through the Cultural and Recreative Mexican club of Santa Ana, under the leadership of Esteban Rodriguez. All interested persons are being invited to be present.

Economic Problems Are Surveyed for Spurgeon P-T. A.

That extended education will be necessary if economic problems of the world are to be solved, was declared by Homer C. Chaney in an address before the Spurgeon Parent-Teacher association held last night in the kindergarten room of the school.

Statesmen must be trained for government to replace politicians, he said.

"We shall have a democracy 100 years from now but we shall probably be no more able to recognize it than would people from 100 years ago be able to recognize the present democracy."

Selections from the school opéra, "Palace of Carelessness," which is being presented tonight, were given. Marjorie Coe, as Mr. Clock, sang a solo. Drusilla Clem as Mrs. Umbrella and Patricia Sharples as the flapper, Umbrella, assisted by Ruth Anderson, Dorothy White, Eugenia Bond, Glenna Jean Deardorff, and Marjorie Sewell of the Umbrella chorus, danced. Raymond Boefe accompanied. In the role of an organ grinder, he played an accordion solo.

Presentation of the president's gavel was made to Mrs. R. E. Steinberger, new president, who introduced her staff of officers. A past president's pin was awarded Mrs. James Givens who officiated as president for the last time this year at last night's meeting.

Approval of June 7 as the date for the school picnic at Irvine park was made at the meeting. Mrs. Forrest Menzie is to head the committee in charge.

Refreshments were served by mothers of first grade students.

BANQUET TONIGHT TO HONOR MOTHERS OF W. A. A. MEMBERS

Mothers and daughters will gather tonight at the Doris Kathryn tea room for the annual junior college Women's Athletic association dinner.

Mrs. Thomas H. Glenn and Mrs. Robert Northcross will give short talks. Miss Agnes DeBusk will sing, accompanied by Miss Genevieve Eustis. Audrey Granas will play a violin solo, accompanied by her sister, Beatrice.

Announcement of the organization's new cabinet will be made at the banquet. The retiring executives include Mary Wallace, president; Roberta Tutthill, vice president; Dorothy Pettit, secretary; Doris Flippin, treasurer; Mildred Kemper, badminton manager; Ruth Kilbourne, baseball manager; and Lucille Griset, swimming manager.

Chairmen for the event are Mildred Kemper, decorations; Lucille Griset, arrangements; Ruth Kilbourne, corsages; Roberta Tutthill, program; Dorothy Pettit, tickets; and Doris Flippin, publicity.

County Head Entertains Clubwomen

Mrs. Archibald (Helen Wishard) Edwards of Fullerton, Orange County Federation of Women's clubs president-elect, presented a program of Russian and English songs at the meeting of Fullerton Woman's clubs yesterday afternoon in the Veterans' hall.

Mrs. Edwards, who has a pleasing soprano voice, was accompanied by Mrs. Ralph W. Irwin of Fullerton, president of Placentia Round Table club. She was introduced by Mrs. J. H. Tompkins, program chairman.

Mrs. M. E. Geeting gave two clever readings of the remainder of the program time.

Mrs. R. G. Carman's report of the recent state convention at Del Monte, and reports of the county convention in Fullerton by Mrs. E. M. Waycott, Mrs. Earl Ladd and Mrs. F. Martin featured the business hour. Mrs. Carman read a prayer given at Del Monte by the retiring president, Miss Josephine G. Seaman of T. Jolla.

A welcome was extended the 19 members who have joined the Woman's club in the closing year. Each was escorted to a tea table appointed in pastel flowers and linens, and diminutive Herberta Johnson in colonial frock gave colonial bouquets to each.

Mrs. D. McIlvain and Mrs. R. W. Cole poured tea. Mrs. Earl Ladd and her committee did the decorating for the day.

Mrs. R. A. McMahon announced the ways and means philanthropy party for Friday, a desert bridge at 12:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. L. A. Turner, 2028 Greenleaf. Mrs. Waycott, 4129, is taking reservations for the party.

In the study section's meeting earlier in the afternoon, Mrs. McMahon and Mrs. J. Edmund Snow were re-elected leader and secretary of the group.

In line with the study of famous women, Mrs. E. Elwell told of the life of Clara Bartlett, Mrs. C. F. Crose discussed Harriet Beecher Stowe, Mrs. F. Martin told of the experiences of Jane Addams, and Mrs. McMahon mentioned the career of Carrie Jacobs Bond.

Officers were installed for the Lowell Parent-Teacher association at the last meeting of the year held yesterday afternoon at the school.

Those who took office included Mrs. R. F. Fipps, president; Mrs. R. Lewis, first vice president; Mrs. Russell Rice, second vice president; Mrs. William Eckles, secretary; Mrs. H. Ainsworth, treasurer; Mrs. B. Mustard, auditor, and Mrs. R. McPhee, parliamentarian. Mrs. Mary B. Robinson acted as installing officer.

Formal presentation of a gold card for approved programs during the past season was made to the association by Mrs. Ruth Brown, program chairman of the city council.

Talking on "Adolescent Age," Mrs. R. R. Russick, police matron, addressed the group.

Officers, guest speakers, and Miss Mildred Mead, principal, were presented corsages. Refreshments were served by mothers of kindergarten children.

Plans for a picnic of teachers and parents on June 4 will be announced after Mrs. Fipps returns from the state convention in San Diego, where she will go Monday.

TURNER TO AGAIN SEEK SPEED MARK

LOS ANGELES, Wednesday, May 22. (AP)—Col. Roscoe Turner, daring speed pilot, wants his San Francisco-to-Los Angeles speed record back.

Vance Brees, Detroit pilot, topped the record last week with a flight between the two cities in 71 minutes, 46 seconds. Now Turner has announced he would bring a fast plane out here to "snip some minutes off that time."

LOS ANGELES, Wednesday, May 22. (AP)—The Evening Star Tuesday revealed that Colonel Alexander E. Williams, until recently Brigadier General in charge of the transportation division of the army quartermaster corps is the officer who was slated to trial before a court-martial yesterday at the army war college under conditions of wartime-like secrecy.

The trial was said by the newspaper to be the outgrowth of testimony given the department of justice and the house military committee by Frank E. Speicher, tire company salesman, in connection with a loan of $2000 he is alleged to have made to the then General Williams while he was chief of army transportation.

ACTRESS INJURED

LOS ANGELES, Wednesday, May 22. (AP)—Falling asleep at the wheel, Robert Cordova, who said he was employed by a San Francisco newspaper, yesterday crashed his auto into an ornamental light standard. Edith Waldron, actress, was severely cut and bruised about the face.

WANT AD HEIRESS

By ROB EDEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY:
FRAN CAREY, stenographer, found an old-fashioned locket. She advertises, but no one claims it for months and then only after a series of puzzling incidents. First Fran is followed by a tall, blond young man. She wears the locket to a dance and receives a note from him warning her to guard it. Then she finds her apartment has been ransacked for the locket. A false claim is made by telephone.
Fran meets and falls in love with WARD QUENTIN, charming, suave, who has opened an office across the hall from where she works. She learns that the man who followed her is CHRISTOPHER ABBOTT, prominent lawyer. She interviews him but he refuses to tell her why he followed her or what value the locket may have.
Ward is the tool of ELLEN and JAY SPENCER, sister and brother, who know the value of the locket and are determined to have it. Their plan is that Ward shall marry Fran and arrange a fatal "accident." Of the conspirators only LAEL HUBBELL, Ward's mistress, objects to this cold blooded murder.
Fran has been completely taken in by Ward, though her roommate, NINA ABBOTT, intuitively suspects him. Abbott also suspects Ward's motive in marrying Fran.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

Well, it was all settled, or as nearly settled as it could be. Fran and Ward were to be married Saturday afternoon at four o'clock in the small chapel of the Little Church of the Roses. All the arrangements had been made.

Ward had made them, even to going over the ceremony with the minister, and hiring a harpist to play at the wedding.

The flowers were ordered, orchids and lily of the valley for herself, Talisman roses and lily of the valley for Nina, who was to be the only attendant.

Guests Invited
The guests had been hidden, not many. Nina, six girls from the office, Mr. and Mrs. Barker, because Fran liked them both, three of Ward's friends, one a bachelor who was going to be his best man, and a married couple. Fran had not met them yet.

After the ceremony there was to be tea in a private reception room of the Belmont Hotel, and after that Fran and Ward were going away. Fran didn't know where, for Ward was keeping that a secret. After a honeymoon of a week, they were coming home to Ward's apartment in the Cambridge and stay there until Fran found a better and larger apartment.

Ward was so good at managing, she told Nina. Took everything off her shoulders. From the telegrams to her Aunt Mary in California announcing their engagement and their coming marriage to the thoughtful gesture of sending a snapshot of himself west so her aunt and cousins could see what kind of a man Ward Quentin was.

There was the stationery he was having made for with the neat "F. Q." in the left hand corner. Fran hadn't seen it yet, but Ward had brought her a drawing of the monogram for her approval. He was tending to the wedding announcements, too, which Lael Hubbell was to address and put into the mail after the ceremony. And personal cards which would read "Mrs. Ward Quentin" in English script on ivory vellum.

New Gifts Arrive
Every night a gift was waiting at the Sedgewick, but Tuesday evening even Nina admitted to herself that Wards was doing things magnificently when she saw the luggage on the floor of the living room. A square hat box, a dressing case, and a suitcase, covered with tan airplane linen and all initiated F. Q. under the chromium locks. Inside the suitcase was a traveling robe of dark brown crepe with slippers to match. Inside the dressing case were three bottles of perfume in a brown leather case, and the hat box contained a little black maline dance hat and a pair of long black taffeta gloves.

Wednesday Fran bought her wedding outfit alone, for Mr. Barker gave her the afternoon off. Not white, because the ceremony was not going to be elaborate enough for white, but pale green because Ward liked her in green. The dress was heavy crepe with a fine lace yoke and the coat that went with it was three-quarter length of the same green crepe, belted tight at the waist and buttoned high up the neck. The hat was a darker green as were the trim sandals. The purse matched the shoes and on it were two maroon initials, F. Q. Eighty-five dollars in all—Fran had never spent so much money before in her life on an outfit.

Thursday at noon, the girls in the MacIntire and Jones office gave her a lingerie shower which, with what she had already purchased, constituted a sizeable trousseau. Thursday evening when she got home, she found a long airmail letter from her aunt, with a $40 check enclosed which she was to use for a wedding present.

Lael said nothing, but Ward expected her to say nothing. He was highly pleased with himself, with everything. As he turned a page, he rubbed his hands together gleefully.

Orange County Sings

WE DRIVE out a stately boulevard lined with sycamores and orange groves and cluster lights. We are on our way to the Santa Ana Cantando club's concert at Orange union high school. We can scarcely tell where one city leaves off and the other begins. There is no boundary line tonight. There is a common interest. Music-lovers from everywhere are converging at Orange. Traffic is heavy.

Arriving at the school we find, although we have started early, that many are there before us. They do not want to miss a single number. The school center, imposing in daytime, is inspiring at night with its floodlights. It appears to be some great university. Tonight it is a temple of music.

We enter. The great auditorium is packed with well-dressed men and women. We see neighbors and friends. Everyone, it seems, is here. There is an expectant buzz before the curtain rises.

"They'll be happy when they see this crowd," remarks a man in the row ahead.

NOW the curtain ascends. Before us sit fifty-four men. During the day we have known them as dairymen, truck drivers, mechanics, engineers, lawyers, educators, orange growers—48 different occupations represented. In the midst of the group of singers sits the mayor of Santa Ana. Tonight he and the milkman are artists—real artists. They are here to sing because they love to. They are all very much at home in their evening clothes. They are eager to be up and at it.

Leon Eckles, the capable director, raises his baton. The truck driver, the milk man, the mayor, the educators and all the rest stand up together. Lustily they sing "The Sailor So Trusty."

There is spontaneous applause as they sit down. Some are here who have not heard the chorus before. They turn to each other. There is whispering and there are nods of approval. Here is a trained group worth coming miles to hear, as many have.

Now comes Kipling's rollicking "Rolling Down to Rio." This is fun, and the singers smile as they sing. They have forgotten the scolding housewife who wanted whipping cream instead of another bottle of milk. The traffic jam that made the truck late and brought on trouble with the boss happened years ago instead of today. The unruly school pupil is but a bad dream. The court's adverse ruling probably was all right. The political entanglement that threatened is ironed out now. The citrus market is looking up and the crop is large.

THEY sing the tender "Songs My Mother Taught Me." The audience is silent for a moment as the number is finished. Now the great auditorium rings again with demonstrated appreciation.

The piano is moved to the center of the stage, and Calmon Luboviski, violinist guest artist, appears, with Miss Ruth Armstrong, the club's accompanist, at the piano. The lively piece, "The Gypsy," captivates his hearers, and he turns to the soothing Schubert "Serenade" and concludes the group with the fanciful "Flight," which was written by Paul Kochanski and dedicated to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. But the audience must have more of Mr. Luboviski, and he graciously plays an encore, and leaves the stage with his hearers fairly begging him for still more.

The male chorus again in "Lo, a Voice to Heaven Sounding." Grand piece and superb performance. It is followed by "The Bird of the Wilderness." The audience demands it again and gets it. Now it is "Moonlight on the Water," with more encores before the spell-bound listeners realize the intermission has arrived.

During the intermission we hear G. R. Stoner, president of Cantando, describe its activities and the personnel of active members. And we learn that the associate members have supported this nine-year-old organization so loyally that it has carried on regularly in spite of the depression.

WE ARE touched as the group sings "Beautiful Dreamer," thrilled at the "Song of the Steppes" and again impressed with the artistry of Mr. Luboviski. We have never heard a better rendition of "Ave Maria." And his playing of "Introduction et Trantelle" is made doubly delightful by the skilled fashion in which Miss Armstrong handles the difficult accompaniment. Mr. Luboviski appreciates it, too, and kisses her hand as he insists she stand and share the applause.

"Far Off in the Wasteland of Desert Sand," followed by the whimsical "Galway Piper" and the galloping "Camptown Races," have us sitting on the edge of our chairs and tapping the floor with our feet to the tempo of Piping Tim, the long-tail filly and the bob-tail nag.

And now Charles Wakefield Cadman's prayerful "Service"—

God, let me know the sun and shade,
The toil and sweat and grime,
The All of Life, the laugh and cry,
From depths to heights sublime.
Now let my love embrace the world
For all humanity
That I may build an earthly home
Of service, God, to Thee.

CANTANDO has scored once more. We find our car and drive home through the fog. But we can see through the fog tonight. Orange county is singing again.

BACK TO THE LAND

AS the surge in after-depression automobile buying reaches a peak, more and more people are turning to real estate. With some, it is a "hedge against inflation"; with others, the desire for a home or piece of land for their own. This is a healthy sign—an indication of the desire for independence and individuality.

If there is to be inflation, property will be better to own than money. It will increase in value, while the value of money will decline. But whether there is inflation or not, good real estate will almost certainly be worth more in five years than it is today.

The next Russian invasion is fiery, but without communistic talent. All the smart bars are now serving vodka and many of the accomplished drinkers are quaffing it in lieu of the favorite tipple. Pure vodka has a burn and a sting. Even such connoisseurs as Mark Hellinger declare its wallop is luster. Although it hasn't the headache qualities next morning there is a depressive let-down that inspires a deep dolor—a melancholia only relieved by "a little more of the hair of the dog."

The late Prince Matchebelli was first to serve a thimbleful of the drink at smart dinners. Before that its American use was water-front bars. Nearly all Russian entertainers indulged a snifter before giving a performance.

It is the only drink that Chaplin enjoys. Wiley Post, who picked up a taste in his Russian flight, calls for it on the few occasions he drinks anything spiritous.

Lillian Russell liked vodka now and then. It gave an edge to those little cigars she smoked.

Champagne, incidentally, has been finding it difficult to reach its pre-war popularity. Many fashionable diners have abandoned it altogether and substituted Scotch and soda. The faked up cider served by illegitimate vintners during prohibition has much to do with the reluctance. Too, the new era has brought forth none of the spectacular wine agents, such as Manny Chappell and George Kessler.

As though I haven't enough worries, a 55-cent collect telegram just arrives to announce a horror at the Aquarium. It says the electric eel is constantly attacking a helpless gold fish, partially swallowing and knocking it insensible with electric shocks.

The old Aquarium was an occasional haunt for Grantland Rice and me during lunch hours on the unlamented Evening Mail. In those days, despite the many signs "Be wary of Pickpockets," the dips held a festival daily. Absorbed by staring into the phantasies of the water tanks, the victims were easy prey. I once felt a hand in my coat pocket, turned quickly and looked into the bland and wide-eyed face of an attractive girl, the only person near. She stared me completely out of countenance.

Those umbrella sellers that appear at the subway exits suddenly, like toadstools, after a shower, belong to the vicarious army of odd job men of the city. They are the Jacks of all trades—shining shoes, selling parade flags, election night horns and extra editions, acting as relief messenger boys, hallyhooing cheap pin shows at rush hours and fulfilling a dozen or more different tasks. They are not lazy. Indeed they are willing workers so long as they can go from one task to another. They won't "stay put."

The famous pine room in Keene's chop house in West 36th street is still carrying on the venerable tradition. The celebrated visitor is given a long stemmed clay pipe after his meal to smoke awhile and then have it numbered with his name and racked with the more nigrificent specimens along the wall. Toomy, the Cockney "pipe warden," has been in charge 25 years. In the collection are pipes puffed by Eamon de Valera, Rose O'Neill, Grace Moore, Fannie Hurst and many of the modern scene. And pipes that will never be smoked again. Pipes of William Howard Taft, Harris Merton Lyon, David Belasco, Clyde Fitch, Augustus Thomas, James Gordon Bennett.

Chop houses are magnets for the lustiest of appetites. I recall going to Keene's one lunch time with Art Young's brother Bill, an editor. He ordered a blue plate of liver sausage fastened with four sunsets of poached eggs, a pewter of stout and a huge slab of pie à la mode with a palm-sized but thinly sliced wedge of cheese. As an afterthought he had a portion of freshly stewed rhubarb. And topped it off with the longest and blackest cigar I ever saw. I remember it all so vividly because it was the day—my fourth in New York—that I pointed to harlots vert, thinking it a fancy desert. The waiter whispered what it was.

Those early days are reminding that a haven my wife and I later called the "what in the world is to become of us bench," down a lost meander of Central Park, has vanished in an upshot of civic bloom. It was whither we drifted so often during an all-too-long jobless interlude, to sit in the vast silence and start.

Talks to Parents

By Brooke Peters Church

Mr. X always came home from work a tired man, physically and nervously depleted. He wanted nothing so much as a few minutes of rest and quiet before dinner, while he pulled himself together, and perhaps talked over the day's events with his wife.

But Mrs. X could not understand this. She felt that the minutes before dinner should be devoted to the children. She encouraged them to meet him with shouts of joy and boisterous accounts of their latest exploits. It was always that way in books. It satisfied her sense of domestic drama.

It did make a pretty picture—the father with children hanging on him and chattering gaily as they entered the house. Then Minnie wanted help with her algebra, and Susie must discuss her report card, and Sam was anxious to tell about a baseball game, and so the time went until, when he sat down to the table, the father was too tired to digest his food.

Maybe Mr. Y or Mr. Z would have enjoyed the program, perhaps Mr. X should have. But no amount of training from wife and children could make Mr. X over, and by the time he reached middle age he was a tired, dyspeptic man with a discouraged outlook on life.

A home should be adjusted to the needs of the parents first, and especially of that parent who must undergo the severest nervous strain and who has the least time for rest. Withal the endless hours that a wife and mother works, she can to some extent control her program and take time out during the day. The house will be happier, the wage earner more successful, if he is permitted to choose for himself how he will spend his few leisure hours, and not be forced to be genial and fatherly when he is utterly exhausted.

Feeling Well Today?

Kidney Stones: II

The experimental white rats which, when fed on a vitamin A deficiency diet developed bladder and kidney stones, could be effectively treated by the addition of vitamin A containing substances to their diet. Rats, in which the presence of the stones was demonstrated by means of X-rays, were fed cod-liver oil and after different periods of treatment the stones disappeared.

The three factors which have been shown to contribute to the formation of urinary stones, namely, keratinization of the lining of the genito-urinary tract, urinary infection, and the alkalization of the urine, were each corrected by the addition to the diet of vitamin A containing substances.

Experimentally, therefore, it has been demonstrated that the formation of the stones in white rats can be stimulated by feeding them a vitamin A deficient diet and that the stones can be "dissolved" by correcting the vitamin A deficiency. These experimental observations have in a limited measure been applied to human patients. For a period of two years, according to a report from the Cleveland clinic, all patients operated upon for urinary stones have been kept on a special "acid-ash diet high in vitamins, especially in vitamin A."

The report states that on this regimen no stones have recurred. The time elapsed, however, was too short to warrant definite conclusions.

More interesting is the report on the effect of such a diet on patients with stones who, for one reason or another, were not treated surgically. In seven such patients there has been noted a marked amelioration of their condition, and in some patients who had but very small stones, these stones have disappeared.

In several instances large stones appeared under this regimen to have been "broken" into smaller stones and these were in part excreted.

The report ends with a warning that the experiment is based on too little data for positive conclusions.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

MAY 22, 1910

The twenty-second of May, 25 years ago, fell on a Sunday. The column today consists of events of interest at that time.

At the Methodist church, South, the revival continues to increase interest and results. An immense audience listened to a great sermon last night by Evangelist Barr. There were two conversions last night and four additions.

Many who went to Trabuca canyon yesterday to fish for trout came home disappointed. The stream has been pretty well cleaned out and there were not enough caught to mention.

The Tustin Packing company has shipped this week three cars of oranges.

Mrs. George Kroll was hostess yesterday to the Santa Ana Sunshine club, serving a sumptuous dinner at 1 o'clock. Covers were laid for Mesdames R. K. Bishop, Clyde Bishop, Eaton, Hossler, Newcomer and Beswick.

NEW YORK—Health officers here have again called attention to the perils at lurk in germ laden paper money. Soiled bills, they say, are found to contain an average of 142,000 bacteria each, and for that reason the money must remain an object of suspicion and actual menace to the health of the community.

"The Art of Managing Woman," is the heading of a recent article of several pages in the Saturday Evening Post. It is with profound regret that the announcement is made that the scheme won't work.

Miss Jennie McFadden who has been studying music for the past six months in New York, returned to her home here last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Thornquist of Redlands were guests yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Chandler.

Christopher walked up and took the feather from Big Chief Eagle. "We take Mr. and Mrs. Quacko Duck and all the other ducks in our tribe for their loyalty and kindness to each other." Big Chief held out the feathers and they all waddled up, took the bright feathers and each tucked one under a wing.

Mrs. Quacko Duck felt a little ashamed for she had not been having very kindly thoughts, but Willy Nilly whispered to her: "You have been kind and good and taken care of many of us when we have been ill or suffering. Everyone cannot be perfect all the time. You are a kind duck." And Mrs. Quacko Duck's beak was all one large smile.

"The bears, old friends of Indians, of caves, of woods, fine bears, now enter tribe and get feathers!"

Jelly and Honey Bear, Blacky and Jupiter now lumberingly waddled up for their feathers.

Then Top Notch and Sweet Face were taken into the tribe and so was Rip.

But when Willy Nilly was made a member of the tribe the shouts that went up could have been heard for miles and miles around!

YE DAIRY

Lay long abed, pondering this and that, in especial a list of personal dislikes, they including:

Stuffed picnic eggs, radio performers who give imitations of birds, facetious friends who telephone at 3 a. m. to inquire after my health, trained dog acts, fat flappers who insist upon wearing beach pajamas, inebriates who weep into their beer, interminable debates over the grade-crossing problem, limp potato chips, practical jokes who explode inflated paper bags behind my back, sneezing powder, fogs that obscure the mountains when easterners are visiting us, "get-together" banquets, cold showers, the high price of pork chops and ocean-going ships that pump their bilge into the bay, thereby leaving an oily scum on bathing beaches for miles around.

Anon up and to breakfast.

HONORS GIVEN

The Indians had found many duck feathers lying around the pond and had dyed them all colors.

"All cannot be Big Chief," said Big Chief Eagle. "All cannot have same honor, but all important and a fine in Puddle Muddle."

Willy Nilly felt greatly relieved.

"I give feather to Christopher for his brave wings that can fly high above and his keen, fine eyes."

Christopher walked up and took the feather from Big Chief Eagle.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Around and About Town

With C. F. SKIRVIN

Jim Raitt, dairyman, who can trace his boyhood days back to Winterset, Iowa, reveal and conceal some of the old swimmin' hole incidents, and reminisce about early Iowa and early Santa Ana, leaned over the counter in The Journal office to talk over days beyond recall. Jim and the perpetrator of this column lived in adjoining Iowa counties. I am not sure it did me any harm, and willing to testify it did Jim no good. Chance contact on a visit to Santa Ana was on a trip to Los Angeles via the Pacific Electric. Then the exchange of amenities (quoting from the antique version) started the argument all over again. If you want to hear it sometime go to the Iowa picnic.

During a few moments of meditation—it could have been aberration—I couldn't tell whether it was the sun shining or an analysis of immediate environment until some one—maybe it was Frank Briggs or John Galanas or someone else—suggested that I look up and not down. Now I ask you if it isn't all right to look in the direction you are going?

This nation has leaped from the use of insignificant hundreds of thousands into the nine ciphers. Small money is passe. Everybody is in big money. Even the real estate men are in the eye-elevation. Billy Martin advertised a piece of property, and was content to take $500 as a down payment, but Billy failed to hold a conference with the linotype operator who went right into administrator figures and when his adv. appeared it made the real estate operator ask for $500,000. A generous piece of inflation.

Reads like a travesty on Sinclair's campaign slogan, "End Poverty in California." The directors of the Epic News held a meeting last Saturday and turned over the entire plant and a $2500 indebtedness to its editor. That's the way most reforms end—with a deficit.

Justus Cramer, co-publisher with Bill Hart in the effusion read and known by all men as the Orange News, invited me to take a trip with him to Sacramento. He refused to designate whether the ridge route or the coast boulevard would be chosen. The proposition was so sudden that it carried with it a suspicion of ulterior purpose. If he took the ridge route I remembered a number of dangerous curves, and if he selected the coast line, well I can't swim. So I filed a plea of nolle prosequi. Justus said if I went with him to Sacramento, I could get some good material for the column. There's a hair line differentiation between ambiguity and a columnist which I refuse to ask Justus to explain. I prefer to remain unconscious.

The result of the proposed grade crossing separation on East First street will permit the steady flow of traffic so that many people going nowhere can get there that much faster. Ho, hum; we go so fast now we fail to either conserve our nerves or profit by the lesson of the bee who stops to absorb the sweetness of nature.

Advance notice to the young ladies who are to sell poppies next Saturday. You will be able to locate me either at the corner of Fourth and Main, Sycamore and Fourth, Broadway at Fourth, or you won't locate me at all. I have an auditor's report on my financial condition as of the close of business May 14, 1935, and the surplus is ample to buy one pale and the other dark. I shall be pleased to take one on the side of the American Legion and the other on the side of the Disabled Veterans of Foreign Wars. After that, having been with Frank Bacon in the war of 1812, I am going to start selling poppies myself.

"That's gold in them ther hills." It's Jim Dietrich broadcasting over the coffee at the Green Café. But the gold is up in Placer county, and Jim has a few claims amounting to some hundreds of acres. He has men and machinery working. Now if he can find the gold the combination will prove profitable. And while we are searching for gold who ever heard of a green cat? Of course you've got to know what I am talking about when I speak of the scarcity of green cats. But of the felis domestica there isn't one of that color in my neighborhood. That hasn't anything to do with Jim's gold mine, but so far as I am concerned I haven't had any interest in yellow metal since Roosevelt kicked me off the gold standard. If Jim ever gets in the money in Placer county I'm going to open up an account over his counter.
